Steel Rejects Union Offer

Soviets Set Up New Geneva Roadblock

East German Participation Is Demanded

West Rejects Bid But Studies Berlin Freeze Proposal

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union swiftly plunged the renewed Geneva conference into crisis Monday by demanding that East German representatives sit in on secret sessions. The West rejected the Soviet bid.

It was a day of speechmaking, the longest day of the conference, and all was going smoothly with both East and West saying there was now a basis of agreement involving a lengthy freeze of the Berlin crisis. But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko put a period to that.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, in the chair as the conference resumed after a three-week recess, had suggested the Big Four foreign ministers hold a secret session Tuesday. No, said Gromyko.

"The Soviet delegation could not show a positive attitude to such a suggestion if it means that some of the participants of the conference are to be excluded from discussion," he said.

No Meeting Tuesday

Herter replied that up to now the secret sessions had been confined to participants in the conference and that the East and West Germans were here as advisers, not participants.

As a result no meeting at all was scheduled for Tuesday. The next session was called for Wednesday.

The Soviet attitude posed a threat to the success of the conference. During the first six weeks of the talks, the only serious negotiations took place at secret sessions attended by Herter, Gromyko, Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

The big plenary sessions, in which delegations sat as observers, produced nothing but speechmaking.

The Western powers took the attitude Gromyko's move was aimed at trying to win Western recognition of the legality of the East German government. The West has stuck firmly to the premise that the East German authorities are Soviet puppets and have no legal standing.

Soviets Propose Freeze Period

Andrew H. Berding, assistant U.S. secretary of state, told newsmen:

"It is quite obvious that what Mr. Gromyko has in mind is the ever-greater de facto recognition of the East German government."

The dispute took the edge off an extremely harmonious session in which Gromyko had assured the Western powers the Soviets would not put a new squeeze on West Berlin if the two sides could agree to put the status of that city on ice while diplomats sought a long-range solution. During the freeze period, he said, "the Soviet Union would not take unilateral action."

Herter in his lengthy opening speech demanded just such an assurance.

But Berding told newsmen the Western powers had not yet decided whether Gromyko's statement was satisfactory.

Live German Bomb 'Horrifies' Excavator

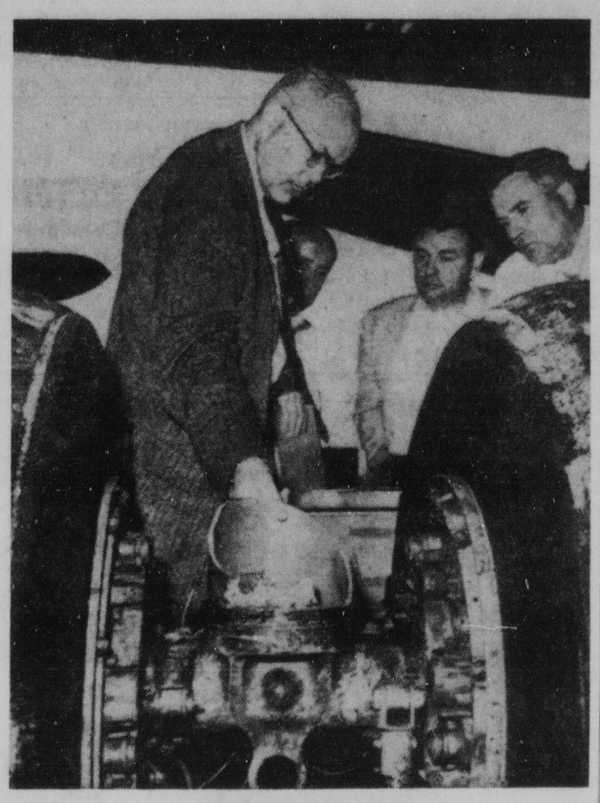

LONDON (AP)—A live 1,200-lb bomb, souvenir of Germany's aerial blitz of World War II, was heaved out of a gravel pit by a drag - line operator Monday. Charles Richardson, 36-year-old driver of the mechanical shovel, told a reporter:

"I was horrified. There was the bomb sitting on the edge of my scoop."

Bomb disposal experts were summoned to remove the fuse.

Jetliner Mishap

Officials at New York inspect the broken shaft of a London-bound jet airliner's wheel assembly after it was fished out of Jamaica Bay off an Idlewild airport runway. The twin-wheel unit, front pair of the four-wheel landing gear under the plane's left wing, dropped off on the airliner's takeoff Saturday, precipitating a four-hour ordeal for the craft's 113 passengers and crew before it managed a safe emergency landing. The broken steel beam is about seven inches in diameter and is hollow with wall about one-quarter inch thick. (AP Photofax)

116 Convict Miners Hold Three Hostage

Tenn. Prisoners Remain Deep In Shaft

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI) — Five of 116 convicts holding three prison employes hostage in a coal mine at Brush Mountain State Prison agreed to come out peacefully Monday night and promised to try to talk the others into giving up.

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI) —More than 100 hardened convict coal miners seized three prison employes Monday and held them hostage deep within a Brushy Mountain Prison mine shaft, apparently in protest against having to work on the birthday of a Confederate general.

There was no indication of exactly what grievances touched off the seizure of four civilian mine foremen. One was released, and officials said the convicts refused to talk to anyone except the state penal chief.

They were informed that this official was on vacation in Florida.

The mine shaft was "escape proof" — having only one entrance, and it was under heavy guard. Neither side had made a move more than eight hours after the hostages were seized.

Guards armed with shotguns and tear gas bombs were posted at the mouth of the mine which burrows into a mountain about one mile from the prison. "There's no other way out," Warden Frank Llewellyn said. "They can't dig through the other side of the mountain."

Llewellyn said the hostages, foremen hired to boss convicts working in the prison-owned mines, were not armed. The convicts had only their mining tools.

Twenty-five state troopers were rushed here to reinforce the guards.

"They're a mile and a quarter down inside that mine," Llewellyn said. "We're just waiting to see what develops because we can't afford to get three men killed if we can help it."

Llewellyn said the 116 convicts, who can communicate with the surface by telephone, refused to negotiate with anyone but state Commissioner of Corrections Keith Hampton who was reported to be in Daytona Beach, Fla. Assistant Commissioner Pat Patterson was summoned to the prison.

It was the second major prison disturbance here in 16 months and the second convict uprising in Tennessee in two months.

The hostages, all married, were identified as Ben Davis, about 36, of Petros; Earl Hensley, about 50, La Follette; and Sherdy Bunch, about 50, Caryville. The convicts sent a fourth man, general foreman Tom Jones, about 60, of Petros, to the surface.

It was reported the prisoners were protesting having to work on a legal state holiday. Monday was the 138th anniversary of the birth of Confederate General Nathan Bedford Forrest and most state offices were closed.

Top Red Agent With Kozlov, Star Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Evening Star said Monday a top Soviet intelligence agent had important under-the-surface assignments during the American tour of Soviet Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov.

Naming the Kozlov aide as Col. Vladimir P. Burdin, the Star said:

"One of his principal missions was to conduct a continuous intelligence-gathering operation as the Kozlov party toured the industrial heart of the nation."

Loyal Troops Quell Revolt In Honduras

Estimated 90 Die; Snipers Open Fire On "White House"

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) —Snipers showered bullets on the Honduran "white house" shortly after noon Monday, briefly renewing the police revolt that brought death to an estimated 90 persons in a 15-hour battle here Sunday.

Riflemen concealed in tall buildings nearby concentrated heavy fire on the official residence of President Ramon Villeda Morales for about half an hour beginning at 1 p.m.

Hundreds of civilians loyal to the government rushed into the streets, seeking weapons with which they could defend the presidential palace. Villeda himself was reported directing the defense of the executive mansion.

Last Gasp Of Revolt

Although it was believed that a number of persons were killed or wounded in the sudden fusillade, no figures were available immediately.

As far as Tegucigalpa was concerned, the firing appeared to be the last gasp of the revolt, whose main forces were broken by loyal troops Sunday. The city was otherwise quiet.

Some rebel activity was reported in the provinces early Monday, notably in the towns of Comayagua and La Paz, despite official claims that the entire country was under government control.

The Sunday-dawn uprising was the worst that has been reported in Honduras since Villeda was inaugurated 18 months ago.

Leader Seeks Asylum

Col. Armando Velasquez Cerrato, leader of the revolt, and two men believed to have been among his chief lieutenants sought asylum in the Costa Rican Embassy. "Some" others were known to have been arrested, but no estimate of their number could be obtained immediately.

A sizeable proportion of the national police supported the Valasquez uprising, but the army and air force remained loyal.

The rebels achieved initial surprise, and succeeded early Sunday in capturing the Francisco Morazan Military Academy and national police headquarters in downtown Tegucigalpa. They controlled the country's telephone and telegraph systems for several hours.

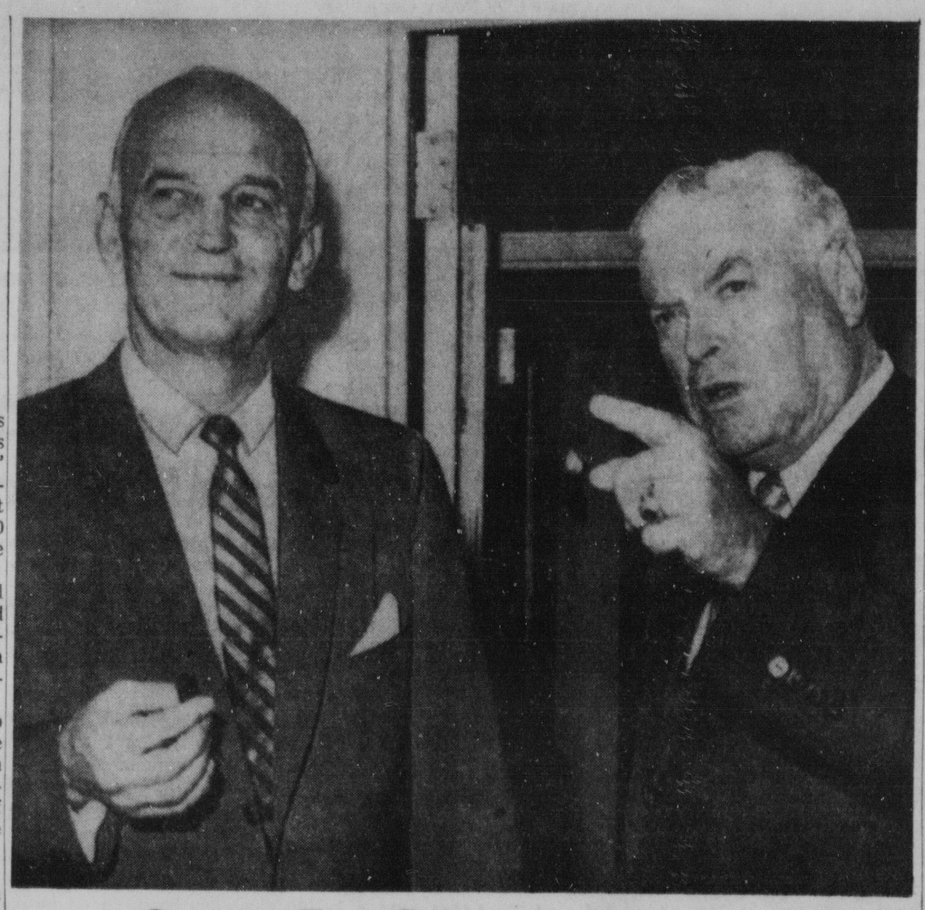

The army rallied quickly, and after rejecting a bid for cooperation from the rebels grouped to smash the revolt.

Huge Plastic Balloon Rises 139,500 Feet

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Office of Naval Research announced Monday it has sent the largest plastic balloon ever launched to an altitude of 139,500 feet over northern Canada.

An ONR spokesman said the balloon was sent aloft from Fort Churchill, Manitoba, on the edge of Hudson Bay Sunday. Part of the Navy's Project Skyhook, it carried a 173-pound load of instruments for cosmic ray research being conducted by Dr. James Earl of the University of Minnesota.

The 344-foot long balloon floated 550 miles south after the 5 a.m. launching, landing its cargo about 12 hours later.

Cuban Quartet Hijacks Plane, Lands In Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four crewmen hijacked an ammunition-laden Cuban air force plane with 17 persons aboard Monday, and forced the pilot to land them in Miami.

The quartet was held for a hearing after they claimed political asylum from Fidel Castro's revolutionary government. They were identified as Candido Baldrich Gonzalez, Ezequiel Paula Viamontes, Silvio Aquila Entenza and Homero Garcia Perara.

Hijackers, all enlisted men, used pistols to enforce their demands for a Miami landing.

Charles Ahrens, U.S. Immigration Service chief agent, quoted the four as saying: "We didn't like the present government and decided to get out."

Others aboard the plane—Capt. Juan Rios Montenegro, 12 servicemen and a woman, mother of an air force member — said they wanted to return to Cuba. The plane took off with them at 3:30 p.m. from Miami International Airport.

The two-engined C47 was delivering a load of ammunition from Havana to Camaguey in central Cuba when the four crewmen took over.

The aerial hijacking and Miami set-down followed the script of numerous similar escapades which occurred on Cuban civil and military aircraft during the regime of Cuban President Fulgencio Batista, overthrown by Castro last Jan. 1.

In recent months a growing number of fugitives from Cuba under Castro have trickled into Florida, most of them sneaking across the Florida Straits in small motor boats.

300,000 To Vote In Va. Primary

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—An estimated 300,000 Virginians will vote Tuesday in a Democratic primary that could determine the course the state will take on school integration.

At stake is Gov. J. Lindsay Almond's control of the Legislature which chose a local option "freedom of choice" program when the courts struck down "massive resistance."

The issue was clearly whether to accept Almond's plan, which permits racial mixing on a local basis, or to restore unyielding resistance to integration.

Forty-six of the 140 seats in the General Assembly are at stake and if Almond's supporters are upset in too many areas, especially in the Senate, it could mean the Legislature will junk the "freedom of choice" plan and look for stiffer means of maintaining segregation.

Hoffa Monitor Plot Story Told At Probe

Tried To Get Foe Off Board, Crum Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets probers heard testimony Monday that Teamster President James R. Hoffa plotted to gain control of the monitors set up by a federal court to check on him.

It also heard, and heard it denied, that a Teamster lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, suggested that an anti-Hoffa witness would be as well off if he didn't tell his story to the committee.

Williams immediately called this a lie. Hoffa may be a witness Tuesday.

In the end, Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said he just could not tell who was telling the truth.

McClellan ordered that the record be referred to the Justice Department, the U.S. District Court here and the monitors. Maybe they can get to the bottom of it, he said.

The row was churned up by Bartley C. Crum, New York lawyer, who swore that emissaries of Hoffa approached him with what he called improper proposals to get a foe of Hoffa off the board of union monitors.

Crum named Harry Bridges, the tempestuous West Coast longshoremen's leader, as one of these emissaries. He said Louis Goldblatt, a Bridges aide, was another.

Their proposition, Crum said, was that he replace Godfrey P. Schmidt as union monitor once Schmidt could be induced to resign.

Crum said a move projected for later was to merge Hoffa's Teamsters and Bridges' longshoremen.

Crum got into the picture as an attorney trying to collect fees for Schmidt, a New York lawyer who had represented a group of Teamster members trying to keep Hoffa out of the union presidency.

The suit was compromised with Hoffa taking the presidency, but under the eyes of three monitors appointed by the court. The union was assessed fees for the lawyers led by Schmidt which were set at $210,000. It was understood that Schmidt was to get half the total.

Hoffa's chief lawyer, Williams, resisted payment. Williams said Monday he thought the amount was excessive.

Crum testified that Williams told him that if he (Crum) did not testify before the Senate probers Schmidt would get paid what was coming to him without any more trouble.

To that, Williams retorted: "A false, vicious and contrived smear."

Gov. Long Fires All His Doctors

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana fired all his doctors and psychiatrists Monday because, he said, he knows as much as they do.

Long, 63, has had as many as six doctors and psychiatrists at one time. He is suffering from nervous breakdown, heart trouble and the effects of a small stroke.

He is in Texas on vacation. While he rests, he is trying to sort out the "scalawags" in his administration so that he can send them packing when he returns home.

"I've got another doctor coming over tomorrow to give me an examination and I'll take his word for it," Long announced.

He said the doctor is a "fellow I've known a long time in Louisiana" but declined to name him.

Prince Philip's Bra That Didn't Show As Advertised Stirs Mild Sensation

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A woman's bra—the property of Prince Philip—failed Monday to appear on public display as advertised.

The bra that didn't show created a mild sensation.

It was supposed to be part of an exhibition opened by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Harold Gillett.

An announcement said:

"Visitors to the exhibition will see, among other things, a clay peacock, a cricket bat, a model of a military policeman in a glass case, a hookah pipe, a bottle of attar scent, four pairs of chopsticks, a cabbage preparation bowl, a backscratcher, a fly swat and, from the people of Tamana Island, a brassiere made from coconut fiber.

These were presents given Queen Elizabeth II's husband on a tour of the British Commonwealth.

The exhibition was staged in the "petit salon" of a department store named Derry and Toms.

Funds collected from paying guests are to go to the National Playing Fields Assn., of which Prince Philip is president.

A large crowd pressed into the petit salon and listened to the Lord Mayor. Then most of the people made a bee line for a display case with presents from Tamana Island.

"Where's the bra?" asked someone.

"The bra?" asked a store official, clad in striped pants. "Whose bra?"

"The prince's bra," said a lady patron.

"Ah, yes," coughed the discreet official, "you'd better ask this lady about that. She's from Buckinham Palace."

The cheeks of the lady from the palace reddened.

"I'm afraid it's at the palace," she said. "I'm sorry, but—but—well, it seems to have been left behind."

The store official explained that while the presents were actually presented to Prince Philip some were intended for members of his family.

"For instance," he explained, "there's a grass mat for Princess Anne."

A bold spirit suggested that the gift from the Tamana islanders might have been intended for another member of the royal family.

"Really," said the store official stalking away, "this conversation is getting dangerously close to lese majeste."

Women's Fall Fashions Stress Feminine Look

NEW YORK (AP)—Women will look like women this fall and men will whistle at the new fashions.

This is the consensus of 200 visiting fashion editors viewing the opening fall showings of the couture group of the New York Dress Institute. Audible signs of relief and enthusiastic applause greeted the first collections, shown by designers Jane Erby, Donald Brooks, Yves Saint-Laurent, and Robert Knox.

The new clothes have waistlines in the middle, wider shoulders, easy fit and a choice of full or slim skirts. Anybody should be happy with such a choice, it is agreed.

Jane Derby shows a collection of beautiful, wearable clothes with her usual touch of elegance. The collection is notable for luxurious fabric and strictly feminine styling.

Donald Brooks, a young American designer showing his first collection for the House of Townley as successor to the late Claire McCardel presented fashions in two moods — full-skirted, draped and swirled, or military and precise. Both are effective.

The Dior New York collection, designed by Saint-Laurent, is most dramatic in the late-day and evening fashions, which look wicked, French and exciting.

His swirled, draped cocktail and dance dresses indicate a person of social brilliance. Notable is a flame taffeta dance dress with a Spanish flair, called "cha-cha-cha", with tiered pouffed ruffles at the hemline and a bit of drape forming the bodice.

Prospect Dim For Averting Costly Strike

Last-Ditch Talks, Resumed At Ike's Request, Continue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel wage negotiators resumed bargaining Monday at the request of President Eisenhower but recessed talks Monday night without making any progress toward heading off a strike at midnight Tuesday by 500,000 steelworkers.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, announced when talks recessed shortly after 10 p.m. e.d.t. that the steel industry had rejected a last-ditch union proposal.

He said the union had ask for a one, two or three-year agreement calling for an annual increase of 15 cents an hour. It was the first disclosure of the union's proposals.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, charged that the union had refused to budge from its position for a wage increase. He said the industry could not be a party to "another round of the inflationary spiral."

Expressing extreme pessimism, Cooper said that the industry regretted the hardship that would result from what now appears to be an inevitable strike.

Will Confer Tuesday

Both sides said, however, that a further 11th hour session would be held Tuesday, starting at 11 a.m. e.d.t.

"Strikes are bad," said Cooper, "but we believe the long-range consequence of acceding to the union's demand would be worse."

Cooper said the union has shown what he termed "its determination to extract another round of wage and benefit increases of inflationary proportion."

McDonald said the union's proposal had been presented to management before and was placed on the bargain table again Monday night.

Talking to newsmen after the two-hour session ended, McDonald defended the "moderate package" on the grounds that it was in line with the annual increase contained in the present agreement, signed in 1956.

Miners Got Increases

That agreement granted the steelworkers a 45-cent increase prior to cost-of-living increases of an additional 17 cents an hour.

McDonald said the new proposal includes retaining the cost-of-living escalator clause, but the industry has insisted on knocking it out of future contracts.

"The union's proposal is well within the range of settlements already made by the steel and other industries this year," McDonald said.

He noted that the steel companies earlier this year awarded a 25-cent-an-hour hike to their coal miners.

McDonald charged that the industry has refused to consider the union proposal "and has made no counter offer."

He said the union offer "would leave the wage costs of producing a ton of steel in 1959 below the level of 1957 or 1958." McDonald said the union proposal was "earned and justified" and could be met without a price increase."

Huge Plastic Balloon Rises 139,500 Feet

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Office of Naval Research announced Monday it has sent the largest plastic balloon ever launched to an altitude of 139,500 feet over northern Canada.

An ONR spokesman said the balloon was sent aloft from Fort Churchill, Manitoba, on the edge of Hudson Bay Sunday. Part of the Navy's Project Skyhook, it carried a 173-pound load of instruments for cosmic ray research being conducted by Dr. James Earl of the University of Minnesota.

The 344-foot long balloon floated 550 miles south after the 5 a.m. launching, landing its cargo about 12 hours later.

Cuban Quartet Hijacks Plane, Lands In Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four crewmen hijacked an ammunition-laden Cuban air force plane with 17 persons aboard Monday, and forced the pilot to land them in Miami.

The quartet was held for a hearing after they claimed political asylum from Fidel Castro's revolutionary government. They were identified as Candido Baldrich Gonzalez, Ezequiel Paula Viamontes, Silvio Aquila Entenza and Homero Garcia Perara.

Hijackers, all enlisted men, used pistols to enforce their demands for a Miami landing.

Charles Ahrens, U.S. Immigration Service chief agent, quoted the four as saying: "We didn't like the present government and decided to get out."

Others aboard the plane—Capt. Juan Rios Montenegro, 12 servicemen and a woman, mother of an air force member — said they wanted to return to Cuba. The plane took off with them at 3:30 p.m. from Miami International Airport.

The two-engined C47 was delivering a load of ammunition from Havana to Camaguey in central Cuba when the four crewmen took over.

The aerial hijacking and Miami set-down followed the script of numerous similar escapades which occurred on Cuban civil and military aircraft during the regime of Cuban President Fulgencio Batista, overthrown by Castro last Jan. 1.

In recent months a growing number of fugitives from Cuba under Castro have trickled into Florida, most of them sneaking across the Florida Straits in small motor boats.

Hoffa Monitor Plot Story Told At Probe

Tried To Get Foe Off Board, Crum Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets probers heard testimony Monday that Teamster President James R. Hoffa plotted to gain control of the monitors set up by a federal court to check on him.

It also heard, and heard it denied, that a Teamster lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, suggested that an anti-Hoffa witness would be as well off if he didn't tell his story to the committee.

Williams immediately called this a lie. Hoffa may be a witness Tuesday.

In the end, Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said he just could not tell who was telling the truth.

McClellan ordered that the record be referred to the Justice Department, the U.S. District Court here and the monitors. Maybe they can get to the bottom of it, he said.

The row was churned up by Bartley C. Crum, New York lawyer, who swore that emissaries of Hoffa approached him with what he called improper proposals to get a foe of Hoffa off the board of union monitors.

Crum named Harry Bridges, the tempestuous West Coast longshoremen's leader, as one of these emissaries. He said Louis Goldblatt, a Bridges aide, was another.

Their proposition, Crum said, was that he replace Godfrey P. Schmidt as union monitor once Schmidt could be induced to resign.

Crum said a move projected for later was to merge Hoffa's Teamsters and Bridges' longshoremen.

Crum got into the picture as an attorney trying to collect fees for Schmidt, a New York lawyer who had represented a group of Teamster members trying to keep Hoffa out of the union presidency.

The suit was compromised with Hoffa taking the presidency, but under the eyes of three monitors appointed by the court. The union was assessed fees for the lawyers led by Schmidt which were set at $210,000. It was understood that Schmidt was to get half the total.

Hoffa's chief lawyer, Williams, resisted payment. Williams said Monday he thought the amount was excessive.

Crum testified that Williams told him that if he (Crum) did not testify before the Senate probers Schmidt would get paid what was coming to him without any more trouble.

To that, Williams retorted: "A false, vicious and contrived smear."

Gov. Long Fires All His Doctors

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana fired all his doctors and psychiatrists Monday because, he said, he knows as much as they do.

Long, 63, has had as many as six doctors and psychiatrists at one time. He is suffering from nervous breakdown, heart trouble and the effects of a small stroke.

He is in Texas on vacation. While he rests, he is trying to sort out the "scalawags" in his administration so that he can send them packing when he returns home.

"I've got another doctor coming over tomorrow to give me an examination and I'll take his word for it," Long announced.

He said the doctor is a "fellow I've known a long time in Louisiana" but declined to name him.

Prince Philip's Bra That Didn't Show As Advertised Stirs Mild Sensation

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A woman's bra—the property of Prince Philip—failed Monday to appear on public display as advertised.

The bra that didn't show created a mild sensation.

It was supposed to be part of an exhibition opened by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Harold Gillett.

An announcement said:

"Visitors to the exhibition will see, among other things, a clay peacock, a cricket bat, a model of a military policeman in a glass case, a hookah pipe, a bottle of attar scent, four pairs of chopsticks, a cabbage preparation bowl, a backscratcher, a fly swat and, from the people of Tamana Island, a brassiere made from coconut fiber.

These were presents given Queen Elizabeth II's husband on a tour of the British Commonwealth.

The exhibition was staged in the "petit salon" of a department store named Derry and Toms.

Funds collected from paying guests are to go to the National Playing Fields Assn., of which Prince Philip is president.

A large crowd pressed into the petit salon and listened to the Lord Mayor. Then most of the people made a bee line for a display case with presents from Tamana Island.

"Where's the bra?" asked someone.

"The bra?" asked a store official, clad in striped pants. "Whose bra?"

"The prince's bra," said a lady patron.

"Ah, yes," coughed the discreet official, "you'd better ask this lady about that. She's from Buckinham Palace."

The cheeks of the lady from the palace reddened.

"I'm afraid it's at the palace," she said. "I'm sorry, but—but—well, it seems to have been left behind."

The store official explained that while the presents were actually presented to Prince Philip some were intended for members of his family.

"For instance," he explained, "there's a grass mat for Princess Anne."

A bold spirit suggested that the gift from the Tamana islanders might have been intended for another member of the royal family.

"Really," said the store official stalking away, "this conversation is getting dangerously close to lese majeste."

300,000 To Vote In Va. Primary

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—An estimated 300,000 Virginians will vote Tuesday in a Democratic primary that could determine the course the state will take on school integration.

At stake is Gov. J. Lindsay Almond's control of the Legislature which chose a local option "freedom of choice" program when the courts struck down "massive resistance."

The issue was clearly whether to accept Almond's plan, which permits racial mixing on a local basis, or to restore unyielding resistance to integration.

Forty-six of the 140 seats in the General Assembly are at stake and if Almond's supporters are upset in too many areas, especially in the Senate, it could mean the Legislature will junk the "freedom of choice" plan and look for stiffer means of maintaining segregation.

Women's Fall Fashions Stress Feminine Look

NEW YORK (AP)—Women will look like women this fall and men will whistle at the new fashions.

This is the consensus of 200 visiting fashion editors viewing the opening fall showings of the couture group of the New York Dress Institute. Audible signs of relief and enthusiastic applause greeted the first collections, shown by designers Jane Erby, Donald Brooks, Yves Saint-Laurent, and Robert Knox.

The new clothes have waistlines in the middle, wider shoulders, easy fit and a choice of full or slim skirts. Anybody should be happy with such a choice, it is agreed.

Jane Derby shows a collection of beautiful, wearable clothes with her usual touch of elegance. The collection is notable for luxurious fabric and strictly feminine styling.

Donald Brooks, a young American designer showing his first collection for the House of Townley as successor to the late Claire McCardel presented fashions in two moods — full-skirted, draped and swirled, or military and precise. Both are effective.

The Dior New York collection, designed by Saint-Laurent, is most dramatic in the late-day and evening fashions, which look wicked, French and exciting.

His swirled, draped cocktail and dance dresses indicate a person of social brilliance. Notable is a flame taffeta dance dress with a Spanish flair, called "cha-cha-cha", with tiered pouffed ruffles at the hemline and a bit of drape forming the bodice.

Soviet Dog Makes Fourth Round-Trip Space Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — Daring, the white space dog, has made another round trip—her fourth—to the outer atmosphere in a rocket, the Soviet Union announced Monday.

Daring and another dog were shot up in a 4,850-pound rocket on July 10 and safely parachuted to earth, the official news agency Tass said.

She was one of three passengers in the dog and bunny rocket which the Soviets announced was sent into space on July 2. The other passengers were another dog, Snowflake, and a rabbit named Marfooshka (Little Martha), the Soviets said.

All the animal space travelers, along with packages of instruments for testing conditions for a man-carrying rocket, were safely recovered, Tass reported.

The Soviets have not disclosed the distance or height reached nor the location of the launching

They have described the July 2 rocket as the most powerful single-stage missile yet put into the cosmos, however, and said it reached a "great altitude."

The second rocket was said to be of the same type, weighing nearly 2½ tons with its payload of instruments and animals. The July 2 rocket with payload was said to have weighed over two tons.

"We have proved that radiation barriers are not impossible to overcome," an announcement said last week.

One reason for sending the same animals on repeated flights is to check their reactions to weightlessness and other space conditions. Nothing was said about the medical condition of the two dogs after their return from the latest probe.

But Tass said "information is reported to have been obtained on the entire range of the research program" for the latest experiment.

This included "measurements of the infrared radiation and the earth's atmosphere, the photographing of clouds over a vast territory, a simultaneous analysis of the ion and neutral composition of the atmosphere and a measurement of the electrostatic fields."

Herter Defers Bohlen Decision After Protests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has assured protesting Senate GOP leaders he will make no decision on whether to use diplomat Charles E. Bohlen as a top Russian adviser until after the current Geneva conference.

This was learned Monday as Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield said that Bohlen would have "general Democratic support" in any showdown on his future status.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and Chairman Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) of the Senate GOP Policy Committee object to Bohlen as chief adviser on Russia.

Bridges was one of the 11 GOP senators who voted against Bohlen when President Eisenhower appointed the career diplomat U.S. ambassador to Russia in 1953. The unsuccessful battle was led by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

After his service in Moscow, Bohlen was appointed U.S. ambassador to the Philippines, where he is still stationed.

Bridges said Monday he told Herter of his objections before the secretary left Friday for the second round of the Geneva foreign ministers conference.

"I have no objection to Mr. Bohlen in any capacity in which the State Department would care to use him except one," Bridges told United Press International.

"I'm absolutely opposed to him being used as chief adviser on our relations with Russia," he said. "The reason I'm opposed is that over a period of years Mr. Bohlen was associated with some of the basic failures in our dealings with Russia and that apparently he still was defending these failures."

Asked what "failures" he referred to, he said "Yalta is a good example."

Nuclear Ship "Garbage" Disposal Plans Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — A committee of top scientists has offered a set of recommendations it says would allow certain radioactive "garbage" from an expected international fleet of 300 nuclear-powered ships to be disposed of without undue hazard to human health.

The recommendations were made Monday by a committee of the National Academy of Sciences which predicted that such a number of nuclear-propelled surface and underwater craft might be in service among the fleets of the world by 1975.

Eleven specific procedures were recommended for the disposal of radioactive wastes which exist in several forms. The waste would not include radioactive fuel elements which the committee indicated would be buried on land.

In general, the suggested safety rules called for disposal at considerable distances at sea—in some cases more than 100 miles from the shoreline.

On Capitol Hill, Atomic Energy Commission officials termed it unlikely that other than very minor use will be made of the ocean for the dumping of radioactive wastes.

At present, they said, the high-level and consequently more dangerous wastes are stored in underground steel tanks on land and there is no proposal ever to dump them in the ocean.

Pistol-Whipped Boy Intercedes For Patrolman

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 15-year-old boy said Monday he hopes a policeman charged with pistol-whipping him is "reinstated in the Baltimore Police Department."

The statement came as the boy ended almost two hours of testimony at a departmental hearing for Patrolman Melvin Howell, charged with using unnecessary force in arresting the boy last Jan. 11.

During Howell's scuffle with the boy, which followed a stolen car chase, Howell's revolver discharged and his fellow officer, Richard H. Duvall, was killed.

The juvenile is now serving a term at the Maryland Training School for Boys on the stolen car charge. He told Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron:

"I have learned a lot from this experience and I am truly sorry over the death of Officer Duvall. That death is because of my wrongdoing.

"Officer Howell was doing his duty. I hope he will be reinstated in the Baltimore Police Department."

Idlewild Mob Scene Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal aviation official said Monday the government would ask for a "full report" on Saturday night's "Roman Holiday" mob scene at New York's Idlewild Airport during the emergency landing of a jet airliner.

James T. Pyle, deputy administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) said accounts of the incident indicated "someone was guilty of very poor management."

An estimated 50,000 persons blocked roads leading to the airport during a four-hour period in which the huge Pan American World Airways jet, carrying 113 persons, circled the field with a damaged landing gear.

The mob hindered fire engines, ambulances and rescue equipment summoned to the airport by officials preparing for a possible crash.

In addition, some 4,000 persons crowded to the edge of the runway seeking front-row views of the unfolding drama.

Md. System Of Treatment For Alcoholics Proposed

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Creation of a commission to study a Maryland system of treatment for alcoholics was urged Monday by Del. Boone (D-Baltimore County), Democratic floor leader of the House of Delegates.

Boone made his suggestion while the Maryland Legislative Council was touring the Eastern Shore State Hospital.

"I feel that the state should try to do something for alcoholics as well as mental defectives or dope addicts," said Boone.

He proposed that a commission on alcoholics be given an initial appropriation of $25,000, similar to that received by a study group on problems of the aged recently named by Gov. Tawes.

Maryland now operates the Patuxent Institution especially for mental defectives convicted of criminal acts. It also has been proposed that the state do something similar for narcotic users.

Neither the state nor any local subdivision has any place to send persons who are chronic drinkers. Many jurists have complained of a lack of such facilities because they are now required to send such defendents to jail.

In prison the alcoholics receive no medical or psychiatric help, Boone pointed out.

"I am convinced they are suffering from a disease and many of them can be helped if given a proper treatment," he said.

The Legislative Council visited the State Hospital after inviting commissioners of the nine Eastern Shore counties to tell them of any problems or requests.

Commissioners from Dorchester, Cecil, Talbot, Wicomico and Queen Annes counties appeared before the Council in the courthouse. Not one of them had anything to present to the legislators.

"It is unusual for the Legislative Council to meet anywhere and find everybody happy with everything," commented Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester).

The Council did hear from Robert McWilliams, a Dorchester County farmer who registered what he described as a "gripe" with his county commissioners. McWilliams was protesting authority given the Dorchester County commissioners by the 1959 Legislature to regulate migratory labor camps.

McWilliams said he objected to giving the commissioners "power to close down our labor camps."

Malkus replied that the commissioners have not yet adopted any regulations and suggested that McWilliams was being unduly alarmed at this time.

75 Offer To Donate Blood To Little Girl

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 75 persons quickly responded to a little girl's need for a rare type of blood.

Four-year-old Diane Cook will need the blood next Wednesday when doctors operate to close a hole in her heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cook, Diane's parents, said calls came in so quickly after their appeal Saturday that they lost exact count.

"Some of the people were on vacation and offered to cut them short for the operation," Cook said.

Diane will need 12 pints of type B blood with a negative RH factor when she undergoes the operation. She'll need fresh blood because she will use an artificial heart while surgeons repair her heart. Blood bank supplies are not usable in this type of surgery.

Donors called from as far away as Ocean City, Md. and Richmond, Va., the happy father said.

Soviet Production Up

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Monday announced a 12 per cent increase in industrial production in the first six months of 1959 over the similar period of 1958.

The central statistical board of the Council of Ministers said production exceeded by 5 per cent the planned output for the first half of this year.

Cop Charged With Breaking, Entering

FREDERICK (AP)—The State's Attorney's Office issued a warrant Monday charging a 27-year-old city policeman with two cases of breaking and entering Frederick offices.

Patrolman Russell L. Potts, a member of the force for two years and son of a police lieutenant, was suspended from duty by Police Chief Charles V. Main pending the outcome of the case.

Chief Main and Detective Sgt. Sherman Boone arrested Potts at the Investors Loan Corp. office the night of July 11. The officer was in uniform.

Foreign Ministers Of OAS Will Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States Monday voted to hold a meeting of the hemispheres' foreign ministers to discuss maintenance of peace in the Americas.

OAS President Gonzalo Escudero, who is from Ecuador, announced approval of the resolution was unanimous.

The selection of the date and place for the session as well as the agenda and the rules of the meeting will be fixed by a committee.

The Council did hear from Robert McWilliams, a Dorchester County farmer who registered what he described as a "gripe" with his county commissioners. McWilliams was protesting authority given the Dorchester County commissioners by the 1959 Legislature to regulate migratory labor camps.

McWilliams said he objected to giving the commissioners "power to close down our labor camps."

Malkus replied that the commissioners have not yet adopted any regulations and suggested that McWilliams was being unduly alarmed at this time.

75 Offer To Donate Blood To Little Girl

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 75 persons quickly responded to a little girl's need for a rare type of blood.

Four-year-old Diane Cook will need the blood next Wednesday when doctors operate to close a hole in her heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cook, Diane's parents, said calls came in so quickly after their appeal Saturday that they lost exact count.

"Some of the people were on vacation and offered to cut them short for the operation," Cook said.

Diane will need 12 pints of type B blood with a negative RH factor when she undergoes the operation. She'll need fresh blood because she will use an artificial heart while surgeons repair her heart. Blood bank supplies are not usable in this type of surgery.

Donors called from as far away as Ocean City, Md. and Richmond, Va., the happy father said.

Union To Fight Anti-Picketing Order By Court

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — A union said Monday it would appeal a decision of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals which prohibits it from picketing the O'Sullivan Rubber Corp. plant at Winchester and from boycotting O'Sullivan products.

The United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America said it would appeal the order to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The circuit court on June 26 ordered enforcement of a National Labor Relations Board injunction against the union, which prohibited the picketing and boycotting.

A dissenting opinion was written by Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff. He expressed doubt that the existing law forbids peaceful picketing and the publication of "we do not patronize' advertisements by a union after that union has been rejected by employes without choosing another bargaining representative.

Union workers struck the O'Sullivan plant two years ago. The company, after bargaining efforts failed, hired persons to replace employes out on strike.

The new employes voted against representation by the union. Despite this, the union continued its picketing and boycotting activities. Under the opinion handed down by the circuit court, these practices must be discontinued.

Whale Washed Ashore In Bay

SOLOMONS, Md. (AP) — State biologists are picking at the bones of a 16-foot whale which washed up on Dare's Beach, 20 miles north of this Calvert County community.

Dr. Frank Schwartz, a biologist at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory here, identified the 1,500-pound mammal as a pike whale, one of the smaller species.

"Once in a while a whale ventures into Chesapeake Bay," Dr. Schwartz said, "but this is extremely infrequent." He said the last one he recalled was a Sei whale that washed ashore in Virginia at the mouth of the Potomac River some 20 or 30 years ago.

Dr. Schwartz said he had not determined what caused the whale's death, but he pointed out there is no real food for mammals in the bay.

The whale, which washed up Sunday, is being dissected for experimental purposes. The body was badly decomposed when it hit the beach.

Soldier Is Killed When Jeep Upsets

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—Pfc. Garland R. Marsh, 22, of Rt. 3, Aberdeen, Md., was killed when the jeep he was riding overturned on a rain-slick road at this Army post Saturday.

Marsh was assigned to the 3rd U.S. Missile Command here.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Nana Marsh, and a son, Michael, of Rt. 3, Aberdeen.

Officials Check Report Mother Abandoned Tot

MILLERSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Juvenile authorities are checking a report that a 4-year-old girl was left to beg food from trailer camp neighbors while her mother was on a two-week drinking spree.

Frank M. Marsheck, owner of the trailer camp, said one of the neighbors brought the tot to him Saturday night. The little girl was hungry, dirty and disheveled, he said.

Marsheck called Anne Arundel County police and sent the child to stay on his farm nearby. He said she is happy there with his 12-year-old daughter.

He said the mother, about 40, has not been around the trailer court much since her husband died about two weeks ago. The little girl was left alone in the trailer when her mother went out to drink, Marsheck said.

The trailer court operator said the girl's mother asked about her Sunday but made no attempt to take her home. He has not seen the woman since, Marsheck said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee Monday approved a bill to permit the relocation of the National Training School for Boys, now in Washington.

The school, located in Washington since 1872, is for youths under 18 convicted of federal offenses.

Bethlehem Steel, Union Make Strike Preparations

BALTIMORE (AP) — Management and labor at Bethlehem Steel's huge Sparrows Point plant made orderly preparations Monday for a nation-wide strike scheduled to begin at midnight Tuesday.

With contract negotiations deadlocked in New York, the company began reducing the heat in 750 coke ovens, banking 10 big blast furnaces and gradually cutting back manpower.

Union representatives named picket captains, prepared signs and worked out plans for emergency financial help to idle workers.

Some 475 of the 30,000 plant employes have been assigned to maintain the machinery during the strike.

The Bethlehem employes receive a total weekly payroll of about $3,500,000. About 3,000 other steelworkers in the Baltimore area are employed by Eastern Stainless Steel Corp. and Armco Steel Corp.

The Sparrows Point plant produces 950 tons of steel an hour. Its workers are members of Locals 2609 and 2610, United Steelworkers of America.

Rain, Heavy Traffic Slow Bridge Travel

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A heavy traffic load and intermittent rain were cited Monday as reasons for Sunday delays of up to 50 minutes by motorists on Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

Louis J. O'Donnell, supervisor of toll facilities, said there were no official figures available on the bridge traffic count for the day but he estimated 18,500 vehicles used the great span. This would be about the same number which traveled the bridge Sunday, July 5.

Frank Hanna, co-supervisor of the bridge, said Sunday's crush developed as travelers returned from visits to Eastern Shore resorts.

O'Donnell suggested that the rain caused many drivers to ignore the 35-mile-an-hour minimum speed limit, recently imposed to prevent jams caused by slow-moving sightseers on the bridge.

GENEVA (UPI)—Foreign Minister Fatim Rustu Zoriu of Turkey arrived Monday for private consultations with the Western Big Three foreign ministers. He was expected to spend two or three days here for what was officially described as "an exchange of views."

Boy, 8, Admits Setting Blaze

BALTIMORE (AP) — Juvenile authorities are handling the case of an 8-year-old boy who told police he touched off a store fire Sunday night when he lit a piece of paper to look for toys.

Police said he and two other boys, 10 and 15, also were charged with the theft of a bicycle from the store.

The four-alarm fire swept the first floor of the St. Vincent de Paul Society's store.

Police said the younger boy told them he returned to the store alone after the theft of the bicycle and entered through a second-story window.

Value Of Making Wills Stressed

"Where there's a will there's a way," but if you do not leave a will the way that your estate may be divided might not be the way you would want it divided.

A will is very necessary, says Joanne Reitz, extension home management specialist of the University of Maryland, and former Allegany County agent. If a person does not leave a will the inheritance laws of the state will govern the disposition of the deceased's estate.

For example, the estate might be divided among a wife and children, when actually a father may have wanted his wife to have full control of the funds so she could support and educate the children without having to account for every penny to the courts.

A will can be made by any male 21 years of age or female 18 years of age who is of sound and disposing mind. A will is an important legal document, says Miss Reitz, and should not be a do-it-yourself project. A lawyer can help you decide on the type of ownership of property, in understanding the need for witnesses, and in other ways. The cost of drawing a will is moderate, and will save much expense later on.

A will may be very short or very long and complex, depending upon the nature of bequest and the size of the estate. However, the following points should be included in all wills:

—a will should always name an executor.

—it should appoint a guardian of minor children.

—the executor should be authorized to act without bond.

—the executor should be free to sell property without the consent of any court.

—the will should conclude with an attestation clause which has weight in proving a will.

After a will is made, it is important to keep it up to date as your family and financial situation changes. It is equally important to keep a written record of where the will is kept, and for family members to be aware of this record.

Twelve members of the group headed by Ellis S. Tisdale, executive director, will set up arrangements for the next full commission meeting which is scheduled in Cumberland September 24 and 25.

Carl J. Johnson, conservationist for the commission and former director of the West Virginia Conservation Commission, said the completion and near completion of two waste treatment plants in this section is the reason for selecting the commission's meeting here in September.

The commission will decide on whether to hold a tour such as the one that was conducted in the North Branch area last fall when the meeting was held in Blackwater Falls State Park Lodge.

Expected to attend besides Tisdale and Johnson are George F. Hazelwood, this city, and Samuel Pancake, Romney, commission members; Donald Birrel, of the Washington District office of the Corps of Army Engineers.

William H. Johnson, this city, district forester; Norris Cayrl, Romney, of the district Soil Conservation Service office there; Robert Brown, director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission; Bernard Wright, director of the West Virginia Water Commission.

Julian G. Patrick, Luke, chairman of the commission's industrial committee, and A. T. Brust, both from the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Also invited have been Robert C. Petersen, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

B&O Promotes Ketzner To Storekeeper

A Cumberland man who started his career on the B&O Railroad here as a messenger in 1939 has been named storekeeper for the Buffalo Division.

He is John Stephen Ketzner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Ketzner, 402 Louisiana Avenue, who had been storekeeper at Keyser for the B&O for several years.

He and his family have moved to DuBois, Pa., where his headquarters are located. The Buffalo Division is the former Buffalo - Pittsburgh - Rochester Railroad which the B&O purchased in 1932.

Ketzner went to work for the B&O Railroad on a part-time basis while attending Fort Hill High School. During World II he served with the Eighth Air Force in Europe as a navigator of a B-17 bomber. On a mission over Germany his plane was shot down over Merzburg and he was a prisoner-of-war almost a year.

After his return from military service he resumed his employment with the B&O here as an accountant in the Stores Department.

In 1948 he was promoted to assistant chief clerk in the Cumberland Division storekeeper's office and a short time later was named chief clerk.

In 1951 he was promoted to assistant storekeeper at the Bolt and Forge Shops here and in 1955 was named storekeeper at Keyser.

He is married to the former Betty Carter, a registered nurse, and they have four children. His father retired about five years ago after 51 years service with the B&O Railroad, most of which he served in the office of the Cumberland Division superintendent.

Damage Heavy In Area Crash

Considerable property damage was caused and one man injured in a headon collision yesterday at Vale Summit.

Injured in the crash was William Jacob Hadley, 38, Lonaconing, who was treated at Miners Hospital in Frostburg and released.

Maryland State Police said the collision occurred around 8 a. m. as a car driven by Robert Winner, 19, Lonaconing, attempted to pass another vehicle and collided with the auto being operated by Hadley.

Police said Winner was passing a vehicle being operated by Wilbur Lancaster, also of Lonaconing. Both vehicles were knocked from the roadway.

Witnesses said the Hadley car was demolished, while extensive damage was caused to the front end of the Winner vehicle.

Young Winner was on his way to Cumberland to take a preentrance examination for the U. S. Naval Academy.

River Basin Commission To Meet Here Today

A planning group of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin will meet in the Fort Cumberland Hotel today at 11:30 a. m. to set up plans for the fall meeting.

Twelve members of the group headed by Ellis S. Tisdale, executive director, will set up arrangements for the next full commission meeting which is scheduled in Cumberland September 24 and 25.

Carl J. Johnson, conservationist for the commission and former director of the West Virginia Conservation Commission, said the completion and near completion of two waste treatment plants in this section is the reason for selecting the commission's meeting here in September.

The commission, he said, plans to give recognition to the City of Cumberland for its sewage treatment works that has been in operation for over a year.

It also plans to cite the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns for the waste treatment plant that is under construction there.

The commission will decide on whether to hold a tour such as the one that was conducted in the North Branch area last fall when the meeting was held in Blackwater Falls State Park Lodge.

Expected to attend besides Tisdale and Johnson are George F. Hazelwood, this city, and Samuel Pancake, Romney, commission members; Donald Birrel, of the Washington District office of the Corps of Army Engineers.

William H. Johnson, this city, district forester; Norris Cayrl, Romney, of the district Soil Conservation Service office there; Robert Brown, director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission; Bernard Wright, director of the West Virginia Water Commission.

Julian G. Patrick, Luke, chairman of the commission's industrial committee, and A. T. Brust, both from the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Also invited have been Robert C. Petersen, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

BALLET TEACHER AT 15

"FOLLOW ME." Teacher Gail Welch shows her little pupils how a ballet step is performed, and they try their best to follow her. At this point they were preparing for a recital.

It pays to start young in the ballet. Ask Gail Welch, of McDonough, Ga., a professional ballet teacher at 15. She has been teaching dancing for five years now, and is a member of the Atlanta Civic Ballet.

This trim and talented high school pupil began taking dancing lessons at four. At first she made one trip a week from McDonough to Atlanta where she was enrolled in the School of Ballet. It meant traveling 20 miles each way. Soon afterward, she began taking two lessons a week.

Ballet fascinated her, Gail said, and finally she decided to make it her career. Three years ago she joined the cast of the Atlanta Civic Ballet.

In addition to her appearance with the Atlanta group and having her own ballet class, she goes to school, acts as assistant pianist in church, sings in the church choir, and plays in the school band.

She also likes to cook and even practices a ballet step or two while doing it.

Gail is pictured here, in all her various activities.

Gail is an exquisite symphony in white in her billowy chiffon tutu, clinging leotard and the satin slippers she's putting on.

Gail finds it's easier to cook when she can do a ballet step at same time.

In airy precision, Gail (left, foreground) and other members of Atlanta Civic Ballet practice a ballet number. Merrilee Smith, at far left, is instructress.

Gail, center, sings in choir at First Baptist Church in McDonough.

She plays the flute in school band at the Henry County High School.

Gail and friend, Cadet Ragmar Becher, take stroll on campus of Georgia Military Academy at College Park.

Gross Sales Tax In W.Va. Is Attacked

Sen. Riley Favors Statewide Repeal

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) — State Sen. Arch W. Riley Jr. told the West Virginia Tax Study Commission Monday he favored eliminating West Virginia's gross sales tax and giving counties most of the responsibility of financing the state's school program.

The Wheeling Democrat was among 75 persons attending the first public hearings held by the commission. Other hearings will be held at Moorefield Wednesday, Bluefield July 20 and Charleston July 21.

Commission chairman Charles Love of Charleston said the consensus was that the present state tax structure was unsound and that it contained certain inequities.

Love said the view expressed by those present would be "most helpful" in aiding the commission to formulate its recommendations to the Legislature.

"I would favor shifting much of the state aid-to-education back to the counties and use these funds for roads and conservation," Riley said.

He also proposed levying of a net income tax and a natural resources severance tax.

The gross sales tax could be levied on a net profit and not on gross sales," Riley said.

Commission executive - secretary Carl Frasure of West Virginia University presented charts showing that West Virginia ranks 47th among the states in the total amount of all general revenue taxes paid, 45th in property taxes collected and 27th in all other taxes collected.

Ross Carnes, president of Cooperative Transit Co., Wheeling, told the commission that unless public transportation firms in West Virginia obtain some tax relief they would go bankrupt.

Mobile X-Ray Unit To Visit Mineral County

KEYSER—The Mobile X-Ray Unit of the West Virginia State Health Department will visit Mineral County during August to conduct a survey to examine large numbers of persons in a relatively short time so that apparently healthy persons can be screened to detect tuberculosis before alarming symptoms occur.

Tuberculosis is found in any age group, but far more cases occur in adults. It is this type of tuberculosis which is most infectious. For this reason case finding of the mobile X-ray type is directed more toward the adult group.

It is recommended that only persons over 20 years of age attend the mobile X-ray unit, with the exception of known contacts and positive reactors to the tuberculin skin test. These two groups are accepted at the Mobile Unit usually regardless of age.

Office records show that there were 2,294 X-rays taken during the Mobile Unit survey of Mineral County in 1958.

The Health Department lists certain priority groups which should be encouraged to attend the Mobile Unit for Xray:

Older persons of low income status; contacts to known cases of tuberculosis; adults who have never had a chest X-ray or not for several years; food handlers; school personnel (all teachers); persons with chronic bronchitis or asthma, or other suspicious pulmonary symptoms, such as cough, chest pains, night sweats and loss of weight, and all members of the negro race over 20 years of age.

Hazelwood Gets Contract For Rt. 39 Job

OAKLAND — The George F. Hazelwood Company of Cumberland has been awarded the contract for a Garrett County road project. The firm plans to begin work on Maryland Route 39 from Crellin to the West Virginia line at Hutton this week.

The Hazelwood firm was low bidder at $431,990.83 for the contract which includes grading, drainage, relocation and resurfacing of the highway.

Hazelwood was one of two construction firms which submitted bids in January for the 2.344-mile highway modernization project.

The contract was awarded by the commission last week, according to George Geary, acting District 6 engineer, who added that the firm expects to begin work within a week.

Plans call for a 24-foot roadway and a 12-foot earth shoulder.

The Hazelwood firm will complete work in about a month on the Flintstone bypass on Route 40.

The road has been open since late last month and work is in the final stages.

About one more week will be needed to complete placing the base course and it will take about three weeks after that to lay a surface course.

SRC officials said the road will be open from now on.

The firm worked through the winter to complete grading on the 2.353-mile project connecting the west side of Polish Mountain to the east slope of Martin Mountain.

Flexibility Seen Need Of School Program

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia School Supt. R. Virgil Rohrbough said Monday that the basic school curriculum in West Virginia should have more flexibility and more initiative should be taken by counties in developing it.

Addressing the annual conference of county school administrators here, he cites as an example of lack of flexibility the fact that "the fine and practical arts are disappearing from the curriculum for the simple reason that an expansion program in the sciences leaves no room for them."

"Our programs are entirely too much alike, there is too little variation, too few opportunities for teachers to show real initiative" Rohrbough said.

"If teachers are to truly make full use of their talents, they must have freedom to do so, for where this freedom has been exercised there is a clear diversity in program offerings and teaching methods."

He said that one of the major objectives in state education for the coming year was the "incorporation of newly defined federal services into our ongoing program of state services."

"This will be no easy task for the tail can easily wag the dog with the inducement of a little federal aid," he said.

In citing some of the problems facing state school administrators Rohrbough said, "If we are to rid ourselves of the functional illiteracy which now impedes the progress of our entire state, the ceiling on public education's assignment must be extended upward.

"We have the facilities, the staff, the desire, but the legal authority is lacking."

The county school administrators will discuss further what to do to hold teachers in the state, as well as other school problems, during their meeting lasting to Wednesday.

Gov. Underwood Advises Nixon On Russian Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Virginia Gov. Cecil H. Underwood conferred for an hour and 15 minutes Monday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, apparently about what Nixon might expect in his forthcoming trip to Russia.

Underwood's name has been linked with Nixon in speculation concerning the Republican ticket at the 1960 GOP national convention. But Underwood said politics was not discussed and that he simply gave the vice president a rundown on his own recent trip to the U. S. S. R.

After the conference, Underwood said, "I think his personality, as it has been in other countries, will be a most effective weapon in breaking through to the Russian people."

"I advised the vice president to make contact with as many of the Russian people as he could during his visit," Underwood said.

Nixon and his wife leave July 23 for the Soviet Union. The vice president will open an American exposition in Moscow.

W.Va. Motorists Have Two Days To Get Tags

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia motorists have only two more days to get their 1959-60 license plates, and several hundred may be caught by the late rush.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Hubert Kelly said Monday only 415,000 automobile tags had been sold despite a 15-day extension granted June 30.

Kelly had said earlier that he expected the sale of automobile plates this year to be near 500,000, some 20,000 above last year, year.

The sale of trucks tags is down some 5,000 from last year with 95,000 dispensed. However, Kelly attributed this in part to a change which allowed farmers to purchase separate licenses this year.

All West Virginia cars, trucks and trailers must have the new red-on-white tags attached before midnight Wednesday and Kelly says the deadline is final this time.

Rev. Joseph Hirsch, who is in charge of the area, announced that outdoor religious programs will be presented each night at 8 p. m. Conducting the programs will be two Catholic priests, Rev. John Cilinski and Rev. Lawrence Molumby of the Richmond Diocesan Mission Band.

The program consists of answering of questions concerning religion and the Bible placed in the question box; a talk each evening upon some teaching in Scripture, and a religious motion picture upon some event in the life of Jesus. A different movie will be shown on each of the nights that the motor chapel will be in Fort Ashby.

The purpose of the Motor Chapel's visit to Fort Ashby, Father Hirsch explained, is to create a spirit of good will, co-operation and better understanding among people of all faiths. The programs each night are educational, aiming to explain and correct many misunderstandings that have arisen in regard to the teachings of Jesus Christ and the beliefs and practices of the Catholic Church. Gross Sales Tax In W.Va. Is Attacked

Sen. Riley Favors Statewide Repeal

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) — State Sen. Arch W. Riley Jr. told the West Virginia Tax Study Commission Monday he favored eliminating West Virginia's gross sales tax and giving counties most of the responsibility of financing the state's school program.

The Wheeling Democrat was among 75 persons attending the first public hearings held by the commission. Other hearings will be held at Moorefield Wednesday, Bluefield July 20 and Charleston July 21.

Commission chairman Charles Love of Charleston said the consensus was that the present state tax structure was unsound and that it contained certain inequities.

Love said the view expressed by those present would be "most helpful" in aiding the commission to formulate its recommendations to the Legislature.

"I would favor shifting much of the state aid-to-education back to the counties and use these funds for roads and conservation," Riley said.

He also proposed levying of a net income tax and a natural resources severance tax.

The gross sales tax could be levied on a net profit and not on gross sales," Riley said.

Commission executive - secretary Carl Frasure of West Virginia University presented charts showing that West Virginia ranks 47th among the states in the total amount of all general revenue taxes paid, 45th in property taxes collected and 27th in all other taxes collected.

Ross Carnes, president of Cooperative Transit Co., Wheeling, told the commission that unless public transportation firms in West Virginia obtain some tax relief they would go bankrupt.

Mobile X-Ray Unit To Visit Mineral County

KEYSER—The Mobile X-Ray Unit of the West Virginia State Health Department will visit Mineral County during August to conduct a survey to examine large numbers of persons in a relatively short time so that apparently healthy persons can be screened to detect tuberculosis before alarming symptoms occur.

Tuberculosis is found in any age group, but far more cases occur in adults. It is this type of tuberculosis which is most infectious. For this reason case finding of the mobile X-ray type is directed more toward the adult group.

It is recommended that only persons over 20 years of age attend the mobile X-ray unit, with the exception of known contacts and positive reactors to the tuberculin skin test. These two groups are accepted at the Mobile Unit usually regardless of age.

Office records show that there were 2,294 X-rays taken during the Mobile Unit survey of Mineral County in 1958.

The Health Department lists certain priority groups which should be encouraged to attend the Mobile Unit for Xray:

Older persons of low income status; contacts to known cases of tuberculosis; adults who have never had a chest X-ray or not for several years; food handlers; school personnel (all teachers); persons with chronic bronchitis or asthma, or other suspicious pulmonary symptoms, such as cough, chest pains, night sweats and loss of weight, and all members of the negro race over 20 years of age.

Gov. Underwood Advises Nixon On Russian Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Virginia Gov. Cecil H. Underwood conferred for an hour and 15 minutes Monday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, apparently about what Nixon might expect in his forthcoming trip to Russia.

Underwood's name has been linked with Nixon in speculation concerning the Republican ticket at the 1960 GOP national convention. But Underwood said politics was not discussed and that he simply gave the vice president a rundown on his own recent trip to the U. S. S. R.

After the conference, Underwood said, "I think his personality, as it has been in other countries, will be a most effective weapon in breaking through to the Russian people."

"I advised the vice president to make contact with as many of the Russian people as he could during his visit," Underwood said.

Nixon and his wife leave July 23 for the Soviet Union. The vice president will open an American exposition in Moscow.

Hazelwood Gets Contract For Rt. 39 Job

OAKLAND — The George F. Hazelwood Company of Cumberland has been awarded the contract for a Garrett County road project. The firm plans to begin work on Maryland Route 39 from Crellin to the West Virginia line at Hutton this week.

The Hazelwood firm was low bidder at $431,990.83 for the contract which includes grading, drainage, relocation and resurfacing of the highway.

Hazelwood was one of two construction firms which submitted bids in January for the 2.344-mile highway modernization project.

The contract was awarded by the commission last week, according to George Geary, acting District 6 engineer, who added that the firm expects to begin work within a week.

Plans call for a 24-foot roadway and a 12-foot earth shoulder.

The Hazelwood firm will complete work in about a month on the Flintstone bypass on Route 40.

The road has been open since late last month and work is in the final stages.

About one more week will be needed to complete placing the base course and it will take about three weeks after that to lay a surface course.

SRC officials said the road will be open from now on.

The firm worked through the winter to complete grading on the 2.353-mile project connecting the west side of Polish Mountain to the east slope of Martin Mountain.

Catholic Motor Chapel Will Visit Fort Ashby, W. Va.

FORT ASHBY, W. Va. — The Catholic Motor Chapel, which has been operating in Virginia for 20 years, will visit Fort Ashby for a series of programs beginning Tuesday, July 21, and ending Sunday, August 2.

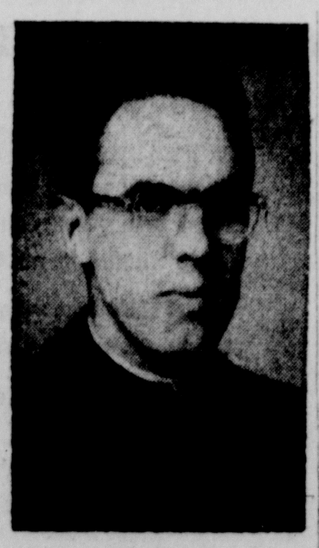

Rev. Joseph Hirsch, who is in charge of the area, announced that outdoor religious programs will be presented each night at 8 p. m. Conducting the programs will be two Catholic priests, Rev. John Cilinski and Rev. Lawrence Molumby of the Richmond Diocesan Mission Band.

The program consists of answering of questions concerning religion and the Bible placed in the question box; a talk each evening upon some teaching in Scripture, and a religious motion picture upon some event in the life of Jesus. A different movie will be shown on each of the nights that the motor chapel will be in Fort Ashby.

The purpose of the Motor Chapel's visit to Fort Ashby, Father Hirsch explained, is to create a spirit of good will, co-operation and better understanding among people of all faiths. The programs each night are educational, aiming to explain and correct many misunderstandings that have arisen in regard to the teachings of Jesus Christ and the beliefs and practices of the Catholic Church. The priests have been carrying on the work with the Motor Chapel for the past twenty years. They have traveled the state, stopping in towns and villages where there are no Catholic Churches or resident Catholic priests.

REV. JOHN T. CILINSKI

REV. LAWRENCE MOLUMBY

Since the work is supported by the Catholics of Virginia and West Virginia, the programs are presented free of charge — no collections will be taken or anything sold.

The programs are held in the open, being conducted from the rear platform of the motor chapel. Those who attend may either sit in their own cars or use the chairs which are provided. While in Fort Ashby, the motor chapel will be located on the lot adjoining the Elementary School on Route 46. Everyone, Catholic and non-Catholic, is invited to attend and to be conducted through the combination Church and home on wheels.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) will take the plunge Tuesday into the race for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Although he will be the first to jump openly into the contest, Humphrey's official announcement of his availability will come as no surprise. It will be unveiled in an unusual way, however, without benefit of the candidate's presence.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn) said he and Gov. Orville L. Freeman, Minnesota's Democratic chief executive, will join in a long-distance news conference to inform the world that his senatorial colleague is off and running.

McCarthy will be on hand in Washington to answer reporters' questions about Humphrey's plans and Freeman will be available on the long-distance phone to fill in any gaps.

Humphrey himself will be on the way back from California, where he has been sniffing the political air in his search for convention support.

Man, Son Injured In Auto Crash

An elderly Lonaconing man and his son were seriously injured Saturday while leading a funeral cortege to Huntington, W. Va.

Admitted to Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, were John R. Hamilton, 84, of 27 Church Street, Lonaconing, and his son, John C. Hamilton, 52, of 700 West View Terrace, Alexandria, Va.

The men were enroute from Lonaconing to Huntington for the burial of the elder Mr. Hamilton's wife, Mrs. Gertrude Hamilton, who died last week in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

The Hamiltons were leading George Eichhorn of Eichhorn's Funeral Home when they failed to negotiate a curve near Petersburg. Eichhorn said the car left the highway and rolled over.

Attaches at the hospital reported yesterday that both men are in "good" condition. Details of their injuries were not available.

Mrs. Hamilton, a native of Hartford, W. Va., died last Thursday night in the Frostburg hospital.

Eichhorn said he continued on to Huntington where burial was conducted Sunday afternoon.

Two Blue Cross Hearings Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—State Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli wants the Blue Cross rate hearings staged in two sessions on separate dates.

In a letter to State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears Monday, Bertorelli said the first session "should be directed to the issue of whether there should be a temporary rate increase to last until such time as an adequate hearing can be held."

Having the second half later, he said, would give "ample opportunity for preparation to all parties and interests."

A hearing before Sears opens at 10 a. m. Wednesday on a proposal by Maryland Hospital Service Inc. to raise hospital insurance rates 24½ per cent for its one million Maryland customers.

Council Places Farm Land In City On Tax Books

The Mayor and Council yesterday adopted a resolution providing for an amendment to the City Charter that would eliminate an old provision exempting farm land and property within the city limits from city taxes.

City officials said the provision was made years ago when there was a good deal of farming done within the city limits. In most cases now, the land is unoccupied and brush covered.

Little revenue is expected to be realized from the amendment, spokesmen saying the move is being made only to correct an inequity.

Council also approved an ordinance calling for the closing of a portion of an unnamed alley in the vicinity of East Side School. The action was taken at the request of the Allegany County Board of Education, it being explained that the action is necessary in connection with the construction to an addition to the school.

The Mayor and Council also approved another ordinance adopting a building code and creating the position of a building officer. The code was recommended by representatives of the National Fire Underwriters Association following a recent inspection of the city's fire fighting resources.

Milton Lee Sarver was approved for employment as a chainman in the Engineering Department and his salary was set at $284.50 monthly. Sarver will replace Robert L. Ritchie Jr., who was killed recently in an accident at the Celanese swimming pool.

Damage Suit For $20,000 Filed Here

Suit was docketed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Harry Gilpin, RD 1, Flintstone, against the George F Hazelwood Company and William Leasure of Oldtown.

The declaration, filed by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the plaintiff, states that Gilpin was employed by Consolidated Engineering Company, which had the contract for construction of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch.

On June 26, 1956, the declaration states, Gilpin was riding a truck owned by the Hazelwood firm and driven by Leasure. It is alleged that the vehicle was operated in a reckless and negligent manner causing Gilpin to be thrown from the truck.

It was stated that Gilpin suffered severe injuries of the back and was totally disabled from July 26, 1956 to September 15, 1957 and as a result lost wages and underwent medical expenses.

Gilpin is asking damages of $20,000.

Parking meter revenues for the week ending July 5 totaled $655.26, a decrease of $87.27 over the week before, the Mayor and Council was told yesterday. The drop in revenue was attributed to the Fourth of July holiday.

Man, Son Injured In Auto Crash

An elderly Lonaconing man and his son were seriously injured Saturday while leading a funeral cortege to Huntington, W. Va.

Admitted to Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, were John R. Hamilton, 84, of 27 Church Street, Lonaconing, and his son, John C. Hamilton, 52, of 700 West View Terrace, Alexandria, Va.

The men were enroute from Lonaconing to Huntington for the burial of the elder Mr. Hamilton's wife, Mrs. Gertrude Hamilton, who died last week in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

The Hamiltons were leading George Eichhorn of Eichhorn's Funeral Home when they failed to negotiate a curve near Petersburg. Eichhorn said the car left the highway and rolled over.

Attaches at the hospital reported yesterday that both men are in "good" condition. Details of their injuries were not available.

Mrs. Hamilton, a native of Hartford, W. Va., died last Thursday night in the Frostburg hospital.

Eichhorn said he continued on to Huntington where burial was conducted Sunday afternoon.

Two Blue Cross Hearings Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—State Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli wants the Blue Cross rate hearings staged in two sessions on separate dates.

In a letter to State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears Monday, Bertorelli said the first session "should be directed to the issue of whether there should be a temporary rate increase to last until such time as an adequate hearing can be held."

Having the second half later, he said, would give "ample opportunity for preparation to all parties and interests."

A hearing before Sears opens at 10 a. m. Wednesday on a proposal by Maryland Hospital Service Inc. to raise hospital insurance rates 24½ per cent for its one million Maryland customers.

Council Places Farm Land In City On Tax Books

The Mayor and Council yesterday adopted a resolution providing for an amendment to the City Charter that would eliminate an old provision exempting farm land and property within the city limits from city taxes.

City officials said the provision was made years ago when there was a good deal of farming done within the city limits. In most cases now, the land is unoccupied and brush covered.

Little revenue is expected to be realized from the amendment, spokesmen saying the move is being made only to correct an inequity.

Council also approved an ordinance calling for the closing of a portion of an unnamed alley in the vicinity of East Side School. The action was taken at the request of the Allegany County Board of Education, it being explained that the action is necessary in connection with the construction to an addition to the school.

The Mayor and Council also approved another ordinance adopting a building code and creating the position of a building officer. The code was recommended by representatives of the National Fire Underwriters Association following a recent inspection of the city's fire fighting resources.

Milton Lee Sarver was approved for employment as a chainman in the Engineering Department and his salary was set at $284.50 monthly. Sarver will replace Robert L. Ritchie Jr., who was killed recently in an accident at the Celanese swimming pool.

Damage Suit For $20,000 Filed Here

Suit was docketed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Harry Gilpin, RD 1, Flintstone, against the George F Hazelwood Company and William Leasure of Oldtown.

The declaration, filed by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the plaintiff, states that Gilpin was employed by Consolidated Engineering Company, which had the contract for construction of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch.

On June 26, 1956, the declaration states, Gilpin was riding a truck owned by the Hazelwood firm and driven by Leasure. It is alleged that the vehicle was operated in a reckless and negligent manner causing Gilpin to be thrown from the truck.

It was stated that Gilpin suffered severe injuries of the back and was totally disabled from July 26, 1956 to September 15, 1957 and as a result lost wages and underwent medical expenses.

Gilpin is asking damages of $20,000.

No Pigeonhole For The Aged

Among the middle-aged today there are a few who look forward to old age without misgivings. Even if material insecurity does not cast its long shadow before it, there is usually the prospect of loneliness when children have left the family rooftree and old friends, in the course of nature, have gone their ways.

This sense of foreboding can be summed up in one word—loneliness. It is one of the most important and perhaps least examined of present day social ills.

Families are not so close-knit now as they were in less sophisticated times. The honored place at the table, the rocker on the verenda, and the serene pleasure of watching grandchildren grow up under the same roof, are too rarely the pleasure and privileges of the elderly nowadays.

Sons and daughters, even when they wish, cannot under modern conditions provide secure and comfortable places for parents. And then age has its pride and independence. Elderly folk often do not wish to feel under an obligation and will resort to brave white lies and face lonely, empty and meaningless days rather than admit their deep need for company and affection.

Perhaps at the root of this, as of so many of our self-created cares these days is our mania for separating things from the stream of living and making "problems" of them. We have the "crime problem," the "housing problem," the "health problem" and so on and on. Each gnaws at the heart and the mind and as a result we have lost the gift of accepting the whole of life as it comes and living it.

One of these pigeon-holes we have labeled "The Problem of Old Age" and it has, in the manner of the times, its own specialists. Even some enlightened welfare workers accept without question this classification, though there is a growing belief that the elderly must not be separated from the rest of society.

They must have homes within their income range, modest though this be, and must be members of a community. Thus we are returning to the wisdom of the ages.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Supreme Court

From the "Christian Nationalist Crusade" comes a table of Supreme Court decisions. It is apparently being circulated all over the country. The purpose of the table is to show that the Supreme Court of the United States is favorable to Communism and the conclusion reached by the authors is that "there is very little difference in the pro-Red leanings of the Justices nominated by the Democrat Party compared to those nominated by the Republican Party."

There is no evidence in the table that its authors read all or any of the decisions of the Supreme Court. The statement is made that the source of the table is remarks of Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, pages 12121 - 12122, Congressional Record, June 10, 1958.

According to this table, decisions are to be judged as "Anti-Red" and "Pro-Red." This is too easy. One of the chief difficulties in fighting the inroads of Communism in the United States is that many anti-Communists do not do any home-work. They are emotionally antagonistic to Communism which they often confuse with all sorts of other things. Meanwhile, their children read books and discover, correctly, that their parents have never read Karl Marx or Lenin or Stalin or the history of the Russian Revolution. They listen to their parents attack socialism and in the same breath advocate socialistic measures to be passed by Congress or by state legislatures. Every time an act is passed extending the power of the government in the economic field, it is a socialistic measure; nevertheless advocates of such bills regard themselves as anti-Communists.

It may be too much to ask for some consistency but if one wants to fight a disease, he must first know the disease. And so many anti-Communists do not begin to know what they are talking about. So when the terms "Pro-Red" or "Anti-Red" are used, more definition is required. In the so-called Communists Cases, the Supreme Court has taken a position which on the whole puts it up to Congress to define its terms specifically and without circumlocutions. In some of the decisions, where Congress was ambiguous, the Court stated the terms in its own language to the embarrassment of those who were fighting the inroads of Communism in American life. In two recent decisions, the Supreme Court clarified the issue developed in the Jencks Case.

The basic problem that faces this country in the era of the Cold War is how to fight off Russia's imperialistic use of the Communist ideology as a weapon of war without destroying the traditional civil rights guaranteed Americans by their Constitution. It has never been an easy task and I know that despite all the attacks that have been made on Senator Joe McCarthy, he took this problem quite seriously.

If we abolished civil rights in the United States in order to safeguard the country from the inroads of Communism, in what way would we be different from the totalitarian Russians and their satellites? The FBI, for instance, which has been the most consistently active agency of government in combatting Communism is also the most active agency of government in protecting civil liberties. Section Four of Article IV of the Constitution guarantees the people of this country a republican form of government. It reads:

"The United States shall guarantee to every State in this a Union republican form of government . . ."

That means that two facets of the American political system must be protected: (1) That the people have a government of their choice; (2) That the republican form must be preserved and if a State of the Union were to establish any other form of government, the United States would intervene. Under such circumstances, the Federal Government could take over the State.

The problem then is not so simple. Decisions cannot be classified as "Pro-Red" or "Anti-Red." The Constitution cannot be defined in such simple language. In times of great stress, it is probable that Justices as well as legislators will stress security more than civil rights; in time of peace, civil rights will be stressed more than security.

The Cold War it is that creates the confusion. We are at war and peace simultaneously. The human mind is not accustomed to such a paradox.

GE, Big Defense Contractor, Has 35 Retired Officers On Payroll

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it pays to look behind a Congressman's votes or speeches to see what motivates them. When Congressman Samuel Stratton, New York Democrat, defended retired admirals and generals working for big corporations, however, you didn't have to look for the motive. He was quite frank about it.

Stratton is former mayor of Schenectady, N.Y., and now represents that district in Congress. He testified quite frankly that the biggest business in Schenectady is General Electric and he wanted retired officers working for G.E. so as to keep defense contracts in New York, not let them go to other companies in California.

This, of course, bears out the very point Congressmen Hebert of Louisiana and Santangelo of New York, together with Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois are making — that retired officers are hired to lobby.

General Electric, however, isn't doing badly on two counts.

No. 1 — It's the third largest on the list of defense contractors. It gets more orders out of the Pentagon than any other company in the USA except Boeing and General Dynamics. With nearly one billion dollars worth of orders during 1958 — $952,400,000 to be exact — General Electric now outranks Charlie Wilson's old company, General Motors.

No. 2 — General Electric ranks fifth on the list of firms employing retired military officers. A total of 35 have been hired by General Electric after they left the Army, Navy, or Air Force.

Ex-Personnel Chief

The list includes such well-known military men as Adm. William M. Fechteler, who as former Chief of Naval Personnel helped pass on the promotions of many officers now holding top jobs in the Navy Department.

Another top brass hat hired by General Electric is Gen. John B. Montgomery, who has an interesting record of sliding in and out of the military service and private business.

Montgomery left the Air Force as a temporary major general to take a lush salary with American Airlines, later was hired by General Electric.

Congressman Stratton, Admiral Radford, and other defenders of brass hats drawing corporation salaries contend that they don't have any real influence with former colleagues. However, General Montgomery had enough influence with the Air Force to have them put up quite a battle with the Senate for his promotion as a reserve officer. When alert Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine found that the confirmation would mean a tax bonanza for Montgomery, the Senate refused to confirm him.

These are just two out of G.E.'s small army of retired officers hired to help with G.E.'s billion dollars worth of defense contracts.

Note — Ninety-five per cent of the defense contracts are let on a negotiated basis, without competitive bids. This mean that a retired officer can and sometimes does tip the contract scales one way or other.

George Meany Moans

A hot hassle took place behind the closed doors of the House Labor and Education Committee the other day in an effort "to get" Jimmy Hoffa. It brought a moan of anguish, however, from Hoffa's No. 1 labor enemy, AFL-CIO president George Meany.

Meany heard about the closed-door argument when Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt of Los Angeles telephoned him.

"Is it true, Mr. Meany," Roosevelt asked, "that you've agreed to include in the labor bill the Udall-Thompson amendment that no one shall hold a union office if convicted of an attempt to commit murder."

Roosevelt referred to a proposal by Democrats Stewart Udall of Arizona and Frank Thompson of New Jersey aimed at knocking ex-convicts from high positions in the Teamsters. They argued that the amendment would "get Hoffa." Roosevelt argued that it was a common practice of employers to send men to create a scuffle on a picket line, after which pickets were often convicted on broad charges, including intent to murder.

"If this stays in the labor bill," Roosevelt argued, "a large percentage of union officers couldn't hold office."

However, the amendment passed 14 to 12 on the assurance that Meany approved it. Phoning this news to Meany afterward, Roosevelt asked: "Do you really mean that you're for this amendment?"

"My God!" exclaimed Meany, "is that in the bill?"

"Yes, it is," replied Roosevelt. 'Good God, I'll get on it right away."

AFL-CIO representative Andrew Biemiller, ex-Congressman from Wisconsin, immediately contacted members of the Labor Committee to urge that the amendment be clarified.

Should Government Avert Steel Strike?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — A nationwide steel strike is due to begin this week. It may last from eight to twelve weeks. It will cost the country many hundreds of millions of dollars among all industries which use steel. It will throw out of work tens of thousands of American citizens. Meanwhile, imports of steel from foreign nations will expand considerably. If wage increases here are forced by the strike, a price rise is probable and then there will be even more foreign production brought into this country.

Should the Federal Government step in? The Taft-Hartley Law provides for a certain measure of intervention. President Truman in 1952 went further. He seized the steel industry and put it under government authority. But the Supreme Court of the United States promptly ruled that this was not authorized by any law of Congress and hence was an unconstitutional action on his part.

But the existing law does provide certain steps to be taken by the government. It authorizes the President, whenever he thinks a strike situation "imperils the national health or safety," to appoint a fact-finding board to report to him in a few days as to whether such an emergency has been reached. The board makes no recommendations at this point but, if it advises the President that a national emergency has arisen, he can then ask a Federal Court to issue an injunction to prevent continuance of the strike for a period of 80 days.

While this stops the strike temporarily, sometimes it affords an opportunity for a negotiated settlement, though seven years ago President Truman refused to use the device because the labor bosses objected. If during the period no settlement has been reached, the President is directed to report the facts to Congress for further action. But also the same board of inquiry which looked into the problem in the first instance is authorized to investigate further and come up with certain facts and recommendations, one of which requires the taking of a secret vote under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board to see whether the last offer made by the employers is acceptable to all the unions involved.

The purpose of this "cooling off" machinery is to give more time to develop, through Federal mediation, a possible settlement. But there is no final coercion except that which comes from a public opinion inside the unions. For if the employes had a chance to vote now in secret — as they may have several weeks hence—they would record themselves in favor of an acceptance of the final offer of the steel companies.

So why all the heavy expense to the nation and particularly to the workers? Why not vote now? That's the core of the controversy. Congress has received from the administration a request for a law to provide that, before a strike is called in any industry, the workers have a chance to vote on the issue in secret. But the labor-union bosses are against such a law, and they control a large number of the members of the Democratic Party in Congress as a consequence of big contributions made to favorite candidates in past campaigns.

A costly strike in the steel industry could, of course, mobilize public opinion throughout the country in favor of such a law, and it might even be a major issue in the 1960 Presidential and Congressional campaigns.

The absence of democracy in the labor unions makes it possible for ambitious dictators to wield autocratic power. Thus, in the steelworkers union, it is believed that David McDonald, president, would have negotiated a settlement before this but fears the tactics of rival candidates within his big union who can distort the issue and blame him for not getting wage increases. He may be well aware that a wage increase could produce a wave of higher prices and inflationary effects, thus permitting more and more steel to come in from foreign countries. But he is unable to take such a position publicly. In fact, he must necessarily oppose anything except that which will be politically helpful to him in keeping his presidential post. A secret ballot by the workers themselves would take him off the hook.

Large inventories have been piled up in anticipation of the steel strike. There are, for instance, more than 900,000 automobiles in stock today and the auto companies have a two months' supply of steel in addition. Theoretically three months could elapse before, legally speaking, there would be a "national emergency" so far as automobiles are concerned. That's true also with respect to refrigerators and many other articles of household use made in part of steel. In other words, the President will have to wait till the economic danger is more acute than it is today before he can act.

The strike is going to be expensive for the country as a whole. If wages are increased and prices rise, more steel from abroad will flow into the United States, causing unemployment for many American workers and a diminished market for American steel companies. It's a tough problem, and it is most unfortunate that the workers themselves cannot vote in secret now to carry on for another year at least the existing pay scales, which, incidentally, are the highest in steel history and far above the scale of many other unions. Such a vote would be a contribution to economic stability which could touch off an unprecedented era of prosperity.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

A discreet but determined drive is under way in Washington to keep Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the lead position he now holds for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

This can be seen in the increasingly important tasks being assigned to the Californian, such as his imminent trip to Moscow and his chairmanship of the federal economic study commission.

President Eisenhower's recent surprise trip to New York to visit the Soviet trade exhibit is considered to be another step to boost Nixon. In Washington, it is contended that the President was persuaded to make the trip primarily to assure that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would make a like appearance while Nixon is in Moscow.

Mr. Eisenhower also wholeheartedly endorsed the Nixon economic committee findings concerning the need to curb inflation. With the President's help, Nixon is getting a lot of headlines from matters dealing with the national economy to foreign affairs, two subjects on which he must be well-grounded if he is to be accepted by the GOP political delegates.

Nixon's supporters are greatly encouraged about his chances against the threatened opposition of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. They point out that President Eisenhower would not go to these lengths to build up anyone whom he did not want to see in the White House. They have used this argument with telling effect on some Republican state leaders.

In fact, some of Nixon's supporters are now predicting that he will be given Eisenhower's open endorsement either at the convention next year, or just before it.

The Daisy Chains

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — For fashioning corporate 'daisy chains," the fugitive Lowell Birrell — the lawyer who practiced high finance — had no peer.

Birrell was a master in the pyramiding of companies. He operated for years under the not so watchful eyes of the SEC.

So confusing are some of his setups that they defy unscrambling even years after his departure from the boards of directors.

Take Greater New York Industries and Doeskin Products — two ventures which he headed for many years.

Greater New York Industries was originally chartered in 1932 as Fidelio Brewery. The name was changed in 1940 to Greater New York Brewery, and in December 1944, it became Greater New York Industries.

After Repeal, Birrell, who was then practicing law on his own, became interested in the reorganization and refinancing of a number of breweries, including Fidelio.

Before adopting the more intriguing name of Greater New York Industries, the company acquired three other breweries — Horton-Pilsener, City Brewing, and Lion Brewing.

Birrell became the president and chairman in 1942. Prior to that time, Birrell also had been interested in the insurance field, along with Stewart Hopps, who broke with him and now lives in California.

This was the field in which Birrell developed his pyramiding technique.

Soon after Birrell became president and chairman, the company expanded into other fields. It acquired control of Louisville Fire & Marine Insurance Co. for a reported $2,389,590.

Greater New York Industries also acquired American Druggists Syndicate, Bartels, Inc., and Bartels Brewing Co. of Pennsylvania.

Louisville Fire and Marine Insurance obtained a large block of Doeskin — then known as San-Nap-Pak Manufacturing Co.

Birrell, in 1949, became an officer and director of Doeskin, and it was this year that the name was changed.

In 1953, Greater New York Industries sold out its holdings of Louisville Fire & Marine and took over at the same time the insurance firm's holdings of Doeskin.

Artificial Bone Replaces Broken Hip Joint

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The hip joint looks like a cane and the part that resembles the handle is joined to the pelvis via a ball-and-socket joint. When an older person falls, it is the handle that usually is broken. This is serious when the break also severs the blood vessels that carry nourishment to the end of the handle. Healing is delayed and the broken off part may disintegrate.

The modern physician tries to avoid these complications by setting the fractured hip as soon as possible. This is not easy to do for anatomical reasons. As a result, many operations have been devised to bring the broken fragments together.

In some instances, the parts allows the victim to move about in bed or on crutches within a short time. This is much better than spending months flat on the back in bed with the leg in traction or held in place with sandbags or a cast.

The sooner the older individual gets up, the less the chance of his developing pneumonia. Three decades ago it was the latter that made the broken hip a death sentence for many of the elderly.

An operation is required to replace the broken bone with the prosthesis. Excellent results are reported in that the victims walk with a minimal limp and little or no pain soon after the wound heals.

One exceptional old man of 92 broke both hips. After the insertion of each prosthesis, he are held together, using a special nail or a metal plate. This started to walk on the second day after the operation. He now walks six to eight blocks with the aid of a cane and climbs three flights of stairs daily despite the fact the upper parts of his hip bones are made of metal.

No Pigeonhole For The Aged

Among the middle-aged today there are a few who look forward to old age without misgivings. Even if material insecurity does not cast its long shadow before it, there is usually the prospect of loneliness when children have left the family rooftree and old friends, in the course of nature, have gone their ways.

This sense of foreboding can be summed up in one word—loneliness. It is one of the most important and perhaps least examined of present day social ills.

Families are not so close-knit now as they were in less sophisticated times. The honored place at the table, the rocker on the verenda, and the serene pleasure of watching grandchildren grow up under the same roof, are too rarely the pleasure and privileges of the elderly nowadays.

Sons and daughters, even when they wish, cannot under modern conditions provide secure and comfortable places for parents. And then age has its pride and independence. Elderly folk often do not wish to feel under an obligation and will resort to brave white lies and face lonely, empty and meaningless days rather than admit their deep need for company and affection.

Perhaps at the root of this, as of so many of our self-created cares these days is our mania for separating things from the stream of living and making "problems" of them. We have the "crime problem," the "housing problem," the "health problem" and so on and on. Each gnaws at the heart and the mind and as a result we have lost the gift of accepting the whole of life as it comes and living it.

One of these pigeon-holes we have labeled "The Problem of Old Age" and it has, in the manner of the times, its own specialists. Even some enlightened welfare workers accept without question this classification, though there is a growing belief that the elderly must not be separated from the rest of society.

They must have homes within their income range, modest though this be, and must be members of a community. Thus we are returning to the wisdom of the ages.

These Days

The Supreme Court

From the "Christian Nationalist Crusade" comes a table of Supreme Court decisions. It is apparently being circulated all over the country. The purpose of the table is to show that the Supreme Court of the United States is favorable to Communism and the conclusion reached by the authors is that "there is very little difference in the pro-Red leanings of the Justices nominated by the Democrat Party compared to those nominated by the Republican Party."

There is no evidence in the table that its authors read all or any of the decisions of the Supreme Court. The statement is made that the source of the table is remarks of Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, pages 12121 - 12122, Congressional Record, June 10, 1958.

According to this table, decisions are to be judged as "Anti-Red" and "Pro-Red." This is too easy. One of the chief difficulties in fighting the inroads of Communism in the United States is that many anti-Communists do not do any home-work. They are emotionally antagonistic to Communism which they often confuse with all sorts of other things. Meanwhile, their children read books and discover, correctly, that their parents have never read Karl Marx or Lenin or Stalin or the history of the Russian Revolution. They listen to their parents attack socialism and in the same breath advocate socialistic measures to be passed by Congress or by state legislatures. Every time an act is passed extending the power of the government in the economic field, it is a socialistic measure; nevertheless advocates of such bills regard themselves as anti-Communists.

It may be too much to ask for some consistency but if one wants to fight a disease, he must first know the disease. And so many anti-Communists do not begin to know what they are talking about. So when the terms "Pro-Red" or "Anti-Red" are used, more definition is required. In the so-called Communists Cases, the Supreme Court has taken a position which on the whole puts it up to Congress to define its terms specifically and without circumlocutions. In some of the decisions, where Congress was ambiguous, the Court stated the terms in its own language to the embarrassment of those who were fighting the inroads of Communism in American life. In two recent decisions, the Supreme Court clarified the issue developed in the Jencks Case.

The basic problem that faces this country in the era of the Cold War is how to fight off Russia's imperialistic use of the Communist ideology as a weapon of war without destroying the traditional civil rights guaranteed Americans by their Constitution. It has never been an easy task and I know that despite all the attacks that have been made on Senator Joe McCarthy, he took this problem quite seriously.

If we abolished civil rights in the United States in order to safeguard the country from the inroads of Communism, in what way would we be different from the totalitarian Russians and their satellites? The FBI, for instance, which has been the most consistently active agency of government in combatting Communism is also the most active agency of government in protecting civil liberties. Section Four of Article IV of the Constitution guarantees the people of this country a republican form of government. It reads:

"The United States shall guarantee to every State in this a Union republican form of government . . ."

That means that two facets of the American political system must be protected: (1) That the people have a government of their choice; (2) That the republican form must be preserved and if a State of the Union were to establish any other form of government, the United States would intervene. Under such circumstances, the Federal Government could take over the State.

The problem then is not so simple. Decisions cannot be classified as "Pro-Red" or "Anti-Red." The Constitution cannot be defined in such simple language. In times of great stress, it is probable that Justices as well as legislators will stress security more than civil rights; in time of peace, civil rights will be stressed more than security.

The Cold War it is that creates the confusion. We are at war and peace simultaneously. The human mind is not accustomed to such a paradox.

'I Guess Statesmanship Just Won't Do It'

GE, Big Defense Contractor, Has 35 Retired Officers On Payroll

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it pays to look behind a Congressman's votes or speeches to see what motivates them. When Congressman Samuel Stratton, New York Democrat, defended retired admirals and generals working for big corporations, however, you didn't have to look for the motive. He was quite frank about it.

Stratton is former mayor of Schenectady, N.Y., and now represents that district in Congress. He testified quite frankly that the biggest business in Schenectady is General Electric and he wanted retired officers working for G.E. so as to keep defense contracts in New York, not let them go to other companies in California.

This, of course, bears out the very point Congressmen Hebert of Louisiana and Santangelo of New York, together with Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois are making — that retired officers are hired to lobby.

General Electric, however, isn't doing badly on two counts.

No. 1 — It's the third largest on the list of defense contractors. It gets more orders out of the Pentagon than any other company in the USA except Boeing and General Dynamics. With nearly one billion dollars worth of orders during 1958 — $952,400,000 to be exact — General Electric now outranks Charlie Wilson's old company, General Motors.

No. 2 — General Electric ranks fifth on the list of firms employing retired military officers. A total of 35 have been hired by General Electric after they left the Army, Navy, or Air Force.

Ex-Personnel Chief

The list includes such well-known military men as Adm. William M. Fechteler, who as former Chief of Naval Personnel helped pass on the promotions of many officers now holding top jobs in the Navy Department.

Another top brass hat hired by General Electric is Gen. John B. Montgomery, who has an interesting record of sliding in and out of the military service and private business.

Montgomery left the Air Force as a temporary major general to take a lush salary with American Airlines, later was hired by General Electric.

Congressman Stratton, Admiral Radford, and other defenders of brass hats drawing corporation salaries contend that they don't have any real influence with former colleagues. However, General Montgomery had enough influence with the Air Force to have them put up quite a battle with the Senate for his promotion as a reserve officer. When alert Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine found that the confirmation would mean a tax bonanza for Montgomery, the Senate refused to confirm him.

These are just two out of G.E.'s small army of retired officers hired to help with G.E.'s billion dollars worth of defense contracts.

Note — Ninety-five per cent of the defense contracts are let on a negotiated basis, without competitive bids. This mean that a retired officer can and sometimes does tip the contract scales one way or other.

George Meany Moans

A hot hassle took place behind the closed doors of the House Labor and Education Committee the other day in an effort "to get" Jimmy Hoffa. It brought a moan of anguish, however, from Hoffa's No. 1 labor enemy, AFL-CIO president George Meany.

Meany heard about the closed-door argument when Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt of Los Angeles telephoned him.

"Is it true, Mr. Meany," Roosevelt asked, "that you've agreed to include in the labor bill the Udall-Thompson amendment that no one shall hold a union office if convicted of an attempt to commit murder."

Roosevelt referred to a proposal by Democrats Stewart Udall of Arizona and Frank Thompson of New Jersey aimed at knocking ex-convicts from high positions in the Teamsters. They argued that the amendment would "get Hoffa." Roosevelt argued that it was a common practice of employers to send men to create a scuffle on a picket line, after which pickets were often convicted on broad charges, including intent to murder.

"If this stays in the labor bill," Roosevelt argued, "a large percentage of union officers couldn't hold office."

However, the amendment passed 14 to 12 on the assurance that Meany approved it. Phoning this news to Meany afterward, Roosevelt asked: "Do you really mean that you're for this amendment?"

"My God!" exclaimed Meany, "is that in the bill?"

"Yes, it is," replied Roosevelt.

'Good God, I'll get on it right away."

AFL-CIO representative Andrew Biemiller, ex-Congressman from Wisconsin, immediately contacted members of the Labor Committee to urge that the amendment be clarified.

Should Government Avert Steel Strike?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — A nationwide steel strike is due to begin this week. It may last from eight to twelve weeks. It will cost the country many hundreds of millions of dollars among all industries which use steel. It will throw out of work tens of thousands of American citizens. Meanwhile, imports of steel from foreign nations will expand considerably. If wage increases here are forced by the strike, a price rise is probable and then there will be even more foreign production brought into this country.

Should the Federal Government step in? The Taft-Hartley Law provides for a certain measure of intervention. President Truman in 1952 went further. He seized the steel industry and put it under government authority. But the Supreme Court of the United States promptly ruled that this was not authorized by any law of Congress and hence was an unconstitutional action on his part.

But the existing law does provide certain steps to be taken by the government. It authorizes the President, whenever he thinks a strike situation "imperils the national health or safety," to appoint a fact-finding board to report to him in a few days as to whether such an emergency has been reached. The board makes no recommendations at this point but, if it advises the President that a national emergency has arisen, he can then ask a Federal Court to issue an injunction to prevent continuance of the strike for a period of 80 days.

While this stops the strike temporarily, sometimes it affords an opportunity for a negotiated settlement, though seven years ago President Truman refused to use the device because the labor bosses objected. If during the period no settlement has been reached, the President is directed to report the facts to Congress for further action. But also the same board of inquiry which looked into the problem in the first instance is authorized to investigate further and come up with certain facts and recommendations, one of which requires the taking of a secret vote under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board to see whether the last offer made by the employers is acceptable to all the unions involved.

The purpose of this "cooling off" machinery is to give more time to develop, through Federal mediation, a possible settlement. But there is no final coercion except that which comes from a public opinion inside the unions. For if the employes had a chance to vote now in secret — as they may have several weeks hence—they would record themselves in favor of an acceptance of the final offer of the steel companies.

So why all the heavy expense to the nation and particularly to the workers? Why not vote now?

That's the core of the controversy. Congress has received from the administration a request for a law to provide that, before a strike is called in any industry, the workers have a chance to vote on the issue in secret. But the labor-union bosses are against such a law, and they control a large number of the members of the Democratic Party in Congress as a consequence of big contributions made to favorite candidates in past campaigns.

A costly strike in the steel industry could, of course, mobilize public opinion throughout the country in favor of such a law, and it might even be a major issue in the 1960 Presidential and Congressional campaigns.

The absence of democracy in the labor unions makes it possible for ambitious dictators to wield autocratic power. Thus, in the steelworkers union, it is believed that David McDonald, president, would have negotiated a settlement before this but fears the tactics of rival candidates within his big union who can distort the issue and blame him for not getting wage increases. He may be well aware that a wage increase could produce a wave of higher prices and inflationary effects, thus permitting more and more steel to come in from foreign countries. But he is unable to take such a position publicly. In fact, he must necessarily oppose anything except that which will be politically helpful to him in keeping his presidential post. A secret ballot by the workers themselves would take him off the hook.

Large inventories have been piled up in anticipation of the steel strike. There are, for instance, more than 900,000 automobiles in stock today and the auto companies have a two months' supply of steel in addition. Theoretically three months could elapse before, legally speaking, there would be a "national emergency" so far as automobiles are concerned. That's true also with respect to refrigerators and many other articles of household use made in part of steel. In other words, the President will have to wait till the economic danger is more acute than it is today before he can act.

The strike is going to be expensive for the country as a whole. If wages are increased and prices rise, more steel from abroad will flow into the United States, causing unemployment for many American workers and a diminished market for American steel companies. It's a tough problem, and it is most unfortunate that the workers themselves cannot vote in secret now to carry on for another year at least the existing pay scales, which, incidentally, are the highest in steel history and far above the scale of many other unions. Such a vote would be a contribution to economic stability which could touch off an unprecedented era of prosperity.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

A discreet but determined drive is under way in Washington to keep Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the lead position he now holds for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

This can be seen in the increasingly important tasks being assigned to the Californian, such as his imminent trip to Moscow and his chairmanship of the federal economic study commission.

President Eisenhower's recent surprise trip to New York to visit the Soviet trade exhibit is considered to be another step to boost Nixon. In Washington, it is contended that the President was persuaded to make the trip primarily to assure that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would make a like appearance while Nixon is in Moscow.

Mr. Eisenhower also wholeheartedly endorsed the Nixon economic committee findings concerning the need to curb inflation. With the President's help, Nixon is getting a lot of headlines from matters dealing with the national economy to foreign affairs, two subjects on which he must be well-grounded if he is to be accepted by the GOP political delegates.

Nixon's supporters are greatly encouraged about his chances against the threatened opposition of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. They point out that President Eisenhower would not go to these lengths to build up anyone whom he did not want to see in the White House. They have used this argument with telling effect on some Republican state leaders.

In fact, some of Nixon's supporters are now predicting that he will be given Eisenhower's open endorsement either at the convention next year, or just before it.

The Daisy Chains

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — For fashioning corporate 'daisy chains," the fugitive Lowell Birrell — the lawyer who practiced high finance — had no peer.

Birrell was a master in the pyramiding of companies. He operated for years under the not so watchful eyes of the SEC.

So confusing are some of his setups that they defy unscrambling even years after his departure from the boards of directors.

Take Greater New York Industries and Doeskin Products — two ventures which he headed for many years.

Greater New York Industries was originally chartered in 1932 as Fidelio Brewery. The name was changed in 1940 to Greater New York Brewery, and in December 1944, it became Greater New York Industries.

After Repeal, Birrell, who was then practicing law on his own, became interested in the reorganization and refinancing of a number of breweries, including Fidelio.

Before adopting the more intriguing name of Greater New York Industries, the company acquired three other breweries — Horton-Pilsener, City Brewing, and Lion Brewing.

Birrell became the president and chairman in 1942. Prior to that time, Birrell also had been interested in the insurance field, along with Stewart Hopps, who broke with him and now lives in California.

This was the field in which Birrell developed his pyramiding technique.

Soon after Birrell became president and chairman, the company expanded into other fields. It acquired control of Louisville Fire & Marine Insurance Co. for a reported $2,389,590.

Greater New York Industries also acquired American Druggists Syndicate, Bartels, Inc., and Bartels Brewing Co. of Pennsylvania.

Louisville Fire and Marine Insurance obtained a large block of Doeskin — then known as San-Nap-Pak Manufacturing Co.

Ed Mathews' 27th Homer Beats Jones

Accounts For Two Runs; Shutout Is 46th For Southpaw

By FRED LINDECKE

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves pitched his third shutout of the season Monday night, 3-0, over the San Francisco Giants as Eddie Mathews drov in two of the runs with his second homer in as many days.

Spahn's win, his 11th against 9 losses, broke a four-game winning streak by Giant starter Sam Jones, who took the loss even though he allowed only three hits in the seven innings he worked.

It was the 46th shutout of Spahn's career, which is tops for National League lefthanders, and his 257th win in 17 years in the senior circuit.

Mathews' homer came after second baseman Johnny O'Brien had walked in the third, and it sailed into the right field bleachers. It was the 27th of the year for Mathews, who leads the league in the round trip department.

Spahn allowed six hits in beating the Giants for the third time this year without losing to the West Coast club. He allowed only one hit for six innings, and then was touched for two singles each in the seventh and eighth, but pitched out of trouble both times.

Milwaukee got only four hits and the last one played a part in the Braves' third run off Giants' reliefer Stu Miller in the eighth. Mathews walked with one out, and Henry Aaron doubled him to third.

After Wes Covington was purposely passed to load the bases, Frank Torre scored Mathews with a sacrifice fly.

Dick Ricketts May Drop Pro Basketball

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Ricketts, former All-America basketball player at Duquesne University, may drop out of professional basketball in favor of a pitching career with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I think I should stick to baseball, now that I have made the majors," the 6-foot-8 Cincinnati Royals player told a newsman Sunday.

"There's more security in baseball and the setup is better all around," Ricketts added.

The Cardinals brought Ricketts up from Rochester, N.Y., a few weeks ago. During his four-year stint in the minors, Ricketts also played pro basketball. He did not play with the Royals last season, but is listed on the NBA roster as voluntarily retired, which would make him eligible to return to the club should he choose to do so.

Milwaukee's Warren Spahn Conquers Giants, 3-0

Ed Mathews' 27th Homer Beats Jones

Accounts For Two Runs; Shutout Is 46th For Southpaw

By FRED LINDECKE

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves pitched his third shutout of the season Monday night, 3-0, over the San Francisco Giants as Eddie Mathews drov in two of the runs with his second homer in as many days.

Spahn's win, his 11th against 9 losses, broke a four-game winning streak by Giant starter Sam Jones, who took the loss even though he allowed only three hits in the seven innings he worked.

It was the 46th shutout of Spahn's career, which is tops for National League lefthanders, and his 257th win in 17 years in the senior circuit.

Mathews' homer came after second baseman Johnny O'Brien had walked in the third, and it sailed into the right field bleachers. It was the 27th of the year for Mathews, who leads the league in the round trip department.

Spahn allowed six hits in beating the Giants for the third time this year without losing to the West Coast club. He allowed only one hit for six innings, and then was touched for two singles each in the seventh and eighth, but pitched out of trouble both times.

Milwaukee got only four hits and the last one played a part in the Braves' third run off Giants' reliefer Stu Miller in the eighth. Mathews walked with one out, and Henry Aaron doubled him to third.

After Wes Covington was purposely passed to load the bases, Frank Torre scored Mathews with a sacrifice fly.

Dick Ricketts May Drop Pro Basketball

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Ricketts, former All-America basketball player at Duquesne University, may drop out of professional basketball in favor of a pitching career with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I think I should stick to baseball, now that I have made the majors," the 6-foot-8 Cincinnati Royals player told a newsman Sunday.

"There's more security in baseball and the setup is better all around," Ricketts added.

The Cardinals brought Ricketts up from Rochester, N.Y., a few weeks ago. During his four-year stint in the minors, Ricketts also played pro basketball. He did not play with the Royals last season, but is listed on the NBA roster as voluntarily retired, which would make him eligible to return to the club should he choose to do so.

Yanks Lose 5 In Row To Sox First Time In 20 Years, 13-3

Homers By Jensen, Stephens Account For Seven Tallies

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox erupted for a nine-run sixth inning—four of them on Gene Stephens' grand slam homer — and went on to blast the slumping New York Yankees 13-3 Monday.

It was Boston's fifth straight decision over the Yankees, the first time the Red Sox had swept a five-game series from the New Yorkers since 1939. The loss dropped Casey Stengel's world champions into fifth place.

Boston's biggest inning of the year included such oddities as two singles by Frank Malzone, and Sammy White ambling in from third base unmolested when Yankee first baseman Elston Howard held the ball and turned to protest a ruling by first base Umpire Nestor Chylak.

Jensen Clouts Ball

Jensen got things started with a three-run homer in the first inning, drove in another run when he was walked with the bases loaded and doubled in three trips. That gave him 10 hits in 19 trips in the five-game series and 10 runs batted in.

Frank Sullivan went the distance for the victory, Boston's seventh in eight starts. He allowed 10 hits, struck out 7 and walked 2.

Berra Hits Homer

He was in trouble only in the first inning when Yogi Berra clouted his 10th homer of the year with Tony Kubek on base.

After Jensen doubled in the sixth, Ted Williams singled him in, then took second on the throw. Malzone singled.

Hector Lopez caught Stephens, running for Williams, at the plate when he trapped Vic Wertz' hard smash. Sullivan singled off McDougald's foot, scoring Malzone. Don Buddin beat out an infield single, and when Howard turned his back to the plate to protest the call, White trotted in. Pete Runnels doubled in a run, and a hit batter and a fielders choice loaded the bases for Stephens' smash.

Yankees Of 1939 Lost Six In Row, Then Won Pennant

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1939 New York Yankees—last Yankee team to lose a five-game series to the Boston Red Sox—encountered their losing streak after winning 53 of their first 70 games.

The team lost a sixth straight game, to the Tigers at Detroit, but then reeled off an eight-game winning streak. It went on to win the pennant by 17 games with a 106-45 record and a .702 percentage.

The scores of the five successive losses to the Red Sox at Yankee Stadium were 4-3, 3-1, 3-2, 4-3 and 5-3. The loss to Detroit was by a 10-6 score.

The Yankees, en route to a fourth straight pennant under Joe McCarthy, won five of eight games in April, then "crushed" the league with a 24-4 spurt in May and had a 21-7 record in June. They split their first six games in July before going into the six-game losing streak. Despite the six straight defeats, their record for the month of July was 16-11.

Laurel Is Seeking Russian Entries For Nov. 11 Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laurel racetrack wants to get some Russian entries again for the eighth running of its $100,000 Washington International turf race Nov. 11.

Vice President Nixon, who is going to Russia late this month was asked Monday to use his influence when he's in Moscow.

John D. Schapiro, president of Laurel, urged Nixon in a letter to "bring this global racing classic to the attention of the proper person or persons" so Russia will send its best thoroughbreds to compete again.

Last year Russia was represented by two of its best horses, Garnir, winner of the 1958 Russian Derby, and Zaryad, runner-up in the same race.

Schapiro said the Laurel race, which invites entries from racing centers of the world to meet American champions in a mile and a half test, "is another manifestation in the realm of sports of the people-to-people program" advocated by President Eisenhower.

Canadian Swimmer Captures Marathon

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — Cliff Lumsden of Toronto, Canada, won the 25-mile Atlantic City world's championship professional marathon swim Monday, beating his perennial rival, defending champion Tom Park of Bellflower, Calif., by six minutes.

Lumsden churned the course around Absecon Island in ten hours, 54 minutes and five seconds to win the $5,000 first prize plus $300 in lap prizes.

Park, winner of the event in 1954, 1955 and last year, and second by a photo finish to Lumsden in 1956, crossed the finish line in 11 hours and 15 seconds. He won $1,500 and a $100 lap prize.

Factoryville Group Discusses Proposed Memorial For Matty

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fourman committee from Factoryville, Pa., met Monday with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to discuss a proposed memorial to Christy Mathewson.

The group met with Frick for a half-hour and showed him a model of the project. Plans call for the construction of a Mathewson recreational center at the birthplace of the famed former New York Giants pitcher. Mathewson was born in Factoryville in 1880.

Much of the discussion with Frick involved means of raising the necessary $750,000 to one-million for building the memorial.

The Factoryville committee also would like to induce two major league clubs to play an exhibition game there to help raise the required funds.

Frick Opposes TV Powerful Lens To Pick Up Signals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said Monday he has asked the National Broadcasting Co. to refrain from using an extremely powerful television lens which clearly picks up the catchers' signals for homelookers.

Frick stressed he did not think the TV lens could or would be used by any club to steal signals from another, but that "I don't think it's a good idea.

The nation's television fans saw these unusual close-range shots when the new 80-inch lens was set up in the center field at Fenway Park Sunday for televising the Yankee-Red Sox game on NBC's "Game-of-the-Week."

The clarity with which the catchers' signals could be seen immediately inspired stories in New York newspapers about the opportunities for signal-stealing.

Greek Star Pays $81.80

Takes Jamaica Opening Feature

New York, July 13 (AP)-Greek Star, longest shot in field of eight, pulled a major surprise in the first running of the $27,950 Sheepshead Bay Handicap today at the opening of the summer meeting at Jamica Race Track.

The 4-year-old son of Heather Broom-Silver Queen, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, sprinted to the lead of the mile and a sixteenth test and stayed there every inch of the way in the swift time of 1:42 1/5. This was one-fifth over Blessbull's track mark set on Oct. 20, 1956.

W. Arnold Hanger's Whitley, in close pursuit all the way, finished a length back of Greek Star and a length in front of Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Oh Johnny.

Then there was a gap of five lengths to C. Mahlon Kline's Mystic 2nd.

Ethel D. Jacob's Promised Land, the favorite, finished fifth another 2 ½ lengths back. In close quarters in the early running, Promised Land went overland in the stretch, but was never close.

Greek Star, one of the lightweights in the race with 110 pounds paid off at $81.80, $25.60 and $12.40. Whitley paid $7.60 and $5.20 and Oh Johnny was $7.70 to show.

The victory was worth $17,867 net to Sidney M. Barton, wealthy New York Real estate operator. Greek Star, brought privately last from J. J. Colando, has won but three races all year, all of them stakes. Before today's triumph he took the Suffolk Turf Handicap and the Governor's Handicap, both at Suffolk Downs.

West Virginia Racing Revenue Is $4,590,471

Report For Fiscal Year Is Announced

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—State revenue from horse racing in West Virginia in the fiscal year which ended June 30 increased $1,592,212 over the previous year.

A report Monday from the State Racing Commission showed that revenue in the 1958-59 fiscal year totaled $4,590,471, against $2,998,259 in 1957-58.

A part of the increase came from a fourth track, Shenandoah Downs at Charles Town, which opened during 1958-59 and had racing in progress from May 1 to June 22.

The other tracks are the Charles Town Jockey Club, Waterford Park near Chester, and Wheeling Downs.

The bulk of the state revenue from racing came from a five per cent tax on the parimutuel betting handle at the tracks. Other items contributing to the total are a daily racing tax of $250 at tracks of less than one mile and of $500 at the only one mile track, Waterford; unredeemed parimutuel tickets, and license fees from horse owners, trainer, and jockeys.

The racing commission operated on a budget of $74,535 in 1958-59.

Yanks Lose 5 In Row To Sox First Time In 20 Years, 13-3

Homers By Jensen, Stephens Account For Seven Tallies

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox erupted for a nine-run sixth inning—four of them on Gene Stephens' grand slam homer — and went on to blast the slumping New York Yankees 13-3 Monday.

It was Boston's fifth straight decision over the Yankees, the first time the Red Sox had swept a five-game series from the New Yorkers since 1939. The loss dropped Casey Stengel's world champions into fifth place.

Boston's biggest inning of the year included such oddities as two singles by Frank Malzone, and Sammy White ambling in from third base unmolested when Yankee first baseman Elston Howard held the ball and turned to protest a ruling by first base Umpire Nestor Chylak.

Jensen Clouts Ball

Jensen got things started with a three-run homer in the first inning, drove in another run when he was walked with the bases loaded and doubled in three trips. That gave him 10 hits in 19 trips in the five-game series and 10 runs batted in.

Frank Sullivan went the distance for the victory, Boston's seventh in eight starts. He allowed 10 hits, struck out 7 and walked 2.

Berra Hits Homer

He was in trouble only in the first inning when Yogi Berra clouted his 10th homer of the year with Tony Kubek on base.

After Jensen doubled in the sixth, Ted Williams singled him in, then took second on the throw. Malzone singled.

Hector Lopez caught Stephens, running for Williams, at the plate when he trapped Vic Wertz' hard smash. Sullivan singled off McDougald's foot, scoring Malzone. Don Buddin beat out an infield single, and when Howard turned his back to the plate to protest the call, White trotted in. Pete Runnels doubled in a run, and a hit batter and a fielders choice loaded the bases for Stephens' smash.

Yankees Of 1939 Lost Six In Row, Then Won Pennant

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1939 New York Yankees—last Yankee team to lose a five-game series to the Boston Red Sox—encountered their losing streak after winning 53 of their first 70 games.

The team lost a sixth straight game, to the Tigers at Detroit, but then reeled off an eight-game winning streak. It went on to win the pennant by 17 games with a 106-45 record and a .702 percentage.

The scores of the five successive losses to the Red Sox at Yankee Stadium were 4-3, 3-1, 3-2, 4-3 and 5-3. The loss to Detroit was by a 10-6 score.

The Yankees, en route to a fourth straight pennant under Joe McCarthy, won five of eight games in April, then "crushed" the league with a 24-4 spurt in May and had a 21-7 record in June. They split their first six games in July before going into the six-game losing streak. Despite the six straight defeats, their record for the month of July was 16-11.

Laurel Is Seeking Russian Entries For Nov. 11 Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laurel racetrack wants to get some Russian entries again for the eighth running of its $100,000 Washington International turf race Nov. 11.

Vice President Nixon, who is going to Russia late this month was asked Monday to use his influence when he's in Moscow.

John D. Schapiro, president of Laurel, urged Nixon in a letter to "bring this global racing classic to the attention of the proper person or persons" so Russia will send its best thoroughbreds to compete again.

Last year Russia was represented by two of its best horses, Garnir, winner of the 1958 Russian Derby, and Zaryad, runner-up in the same race.

Schapiro said the Laurel race, which invites entries from racing centers of the world to meet American champions in a mile and a half test, "is another manifestation in the realm of sports of the people-to-people program" advocated by President Eisenhower.

Canadian Swimmer Captures Marathon

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — Cliff Lumsden of Toronto, Canada, won the 25-mile Atlantic City world's championship professional marathon swim Monday, beating his perennial rival, defending champion Tom Park of Bellflower, Calif., by six minutes.

Lumsden churned the course around Absecon Island in ten hours, 54 minutes and five seconds to win the $5,000 first prize plus $300 in lap prizes.

Park, winner of the event in 1954, 1955 and last year, and second by a photo finish to Lumsden in 1956, crossed the finish line in 11 hours and 15 seconds. He won $1,500 and a $100 lap prize.

Factoryville Group Discusses Proposed Memorial For Matty

NEW YORK (UPI) — A four-man committee from Factoryville, Pa., met Monday with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to discuss a proposed memorial to Christy Mathewson.

The group met with Frick for a half-hour and showed him a model of the project. Plans call for the construction of a Mathewson recreational center at the birthplace of the famed former New York Giants pitcher. Mathewson was born in Factoryville in 1880.

Much of the discussion with Frick involved means of raising the necessary $750,000 to one-million for building the memorial.

The Factoryville committee also would like to induce two major league clubs to play an exhibition game there to help raise the required funds.

Frick Opposes TV Powerful Lens To Pick Up Signals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said Monday he has asked the National Broadcasting Co. to refrain from using an extremely powerful television lens which clearly picks up the catchers' signals for home-lookers.

Frick stressed he did not think the TV lens could or would be used by any club to steal signals from another, but that "I don't think it's a good idea.

The nation's television fans saw these unusual close-range shots when the new 80-inch lens was set up in the center field at Fenway Park Sunday for televising the Yankee-Red Sox game on NBC's "Game-of-the-Week."

The clarity with which the catchers' signals could be seen immediately inspired stories in New York newspapers about the opportunities for signal-stealing.

Greek Star Pays $81.80

Takes Jamaica Opening Feature

New York, July 13 (AP)-Greek Star, longest shot in field of eight, pulled a major surprise in the first running of the $27,950 Sheepshead Bay Handicap today at the opening of the summer meeting at Jamica Race Track.

The 4-year-old son of Heather Broom-Silver Queen, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, sprinted to the lead of the mile and a sixteenth test and stayed there every inch of the way in the swift time of 1:42 1/5. This was one-fifth over Blessbull's track mark set on Oct. 20, 1956.

W. Arnold Hanger's Whitley, in close pursuit all the way, finished a length back of Greek Star and a length in front of Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Oh Johnny.

Then there was a gap of five lengths to C. Mahlon Kline's Mystic 2nd.

Ethel D. Jacob's Promised Land, the favorite, finished fifth another 2 ½ lengths back. In close quarters in the early running, Promised Land went overland in the stretch, but was never close.

Greek Star, one of the lightweights in the race with 110 pounds paid off at $81.80, $25.60 and $12.40. Whitley paid $7.60 and $5.20 and Oh Johnny was $7.70 to show.

The victory was worth $17,867 net to Sidney M. Barton, wealthy New York Real estate operator. Greek Star, brought privately last from J. J. Colando, has won but three races all year, all of them stakes. Before today's triumph he took the Suffolk Turf Handicap and the Governor's Handicap, both at Suffolk Downs.

West Virginia Racing Revenue Is $4,590,471

Report For Fiscal Year Is Announced

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— State revenue from horse racing in West Virginia in the fiscal year which ended June 30 increased $1,592,212 over the previous year.

A report Monday from the State Racing Commission showed that revenue in the 1958-59 fiscal year totaled $4,590,471, against $2,998,259 in 1957-58.

A part of the increase came from a fourth track, Shenandoah Downs at Charles Town, which opened during 1958-59 and had racing in progress from May 1 to June 22.

The other tracks are the Charles Town Jockey Club, Waterford Park near Chester, and Wheeling Downs.

The bulk of the state revenue from racing came from a five per cent tax on the parimutuel betting handle at the tracks. Other items contributing to the total are a daily racing tax of $250 at tracks of less than one mile and of $500 at the only one mile track, Waterford; unredeemed parimutuel tickets, and license fees from horse owners, trainer, and jockeys.

The racing commission operated on a budget of $74,535 in 1958-59.

British Select Ryder Cup Team

LONDON (UPI) — The British, who won the Ryder Cup in 1957 for the first time in 24 years, on Monday named 7 of the 10 professional golfers who will defend it against the United States Nov. 7-8 at Palm Desert, Calif.

Those chosen were Bernard Hunt, Harry Weetman, Peter Mills and Peter Alliss of England; Christy O'Connor and Norman Drew of Ireland and Dai Rees of Wales. They qualified through a point system based on placings in certain 1959 British Professional Golf Association tournaments.

Reds Recall Hook

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds Monday recalled former bonus pitcher Jay Hook from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

General Manager Gabe Paul said the Grayslake, Ill., right hander was ordered to report to the parent club immediately. Hook has posted a 10-7 record with last place Seattle.

Vitamin D is the sunshine vitamin.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Sunshine Vitamin

Among the best of skin "foods" is one that you can get free — right from ol' King Sol himself. That is vitamin D.

Vitamin D, found in sunlight, is a great builder-upper. It normalizes blood and builds bone. You need more of it for good teeth, sound nerves, better sleep. If you have an insufficient amount of it you are apt to have poor bone structure, nervous tension, bad teeth, calcium deficiency, arthritis and nearsightedness. The best source of this vitamin is sunshine, so relax in it when you can.

Don't think a heavy tan means you're getting more vitamin D. In fact, just the opposite can be true. When you are heavily tanned, less of the ultraviolet ray light from the sun reaches the lower layer of the skin where it activates the provitamin. This is the reason for the greater incidence of rickets in dark-skinned children. So remember this next time when you're working so hard to develop a heavy coat of tan. It may bring compliments from some friends, but it decreases the scientific profit from exposure to sunshine.

When you expose your skin to sunlight, activation of a provitamin in the skin occurs. After activation in the skin, vitamin D is transported by the blood all over the body.

Don't be in too big a hurry to wash away the benefits from a sunbath. In other words, give your skin time to absorb the vitamin D. When you come inside from a bout with the sun, don't rush to the bathroom to take a shower or bath. Relax and have a short nap, or read the newspaper first.

Vitamin D is strange among the vitamins in that more of it is ordinarily taken into the body through the skin than the mouth.

The woman who nurtures her face but neglects the all-over complexion of her body is like an ostrich with its head in the sand. Everybody sees the plumage except the owner. So take a sunbath exposing as much of the body as possible when you can.

Court Probates Wills Of Three

Wills of three persons who died in the final days of June were probated in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Miss Virginia Opie McKay, 74, a former local resident, who lived at 16 Bestgate Road, Annapolis, at the time of her death June 30. Her brother, Daniel A. McKay, 15 South Allegany Street, qualified as executor under a $1,000 bond. He was the sole beneficiary under the will dated August 27, 1947.

Also probated Friday was the will of Edgar W. Shuck, who was a 52-year-old resident of 47 Broadway, Frostburg, at the time of his death June 30. His widow, Dora A. Shuck, qualified as executrix under a $200 bond and was the sole beneficiary. It was dated June 28, 1955.

The third will probated was the last testament of Miss Rose Cecelia Dempsey, who lived at 202 Prince George Street at the time of her death June 26. Her sister, Mrs. Clara V. Sigler, who lives at the Prince George Street address, was the sole beneficiary and qualified as executrix under a $100 bond.

Declarer had to rely on sleight of hand today to divert his opponent's attention from the weak spot in his hand.

North had something of a problem on his first rebid. The hand was somewhat too robust for a mere single raise of partner's spade response, so he inhaled deeply and bid two diamonds hoping to get another chance. This anxious moment might have been avoided had he chosen to open with the more logical call of one no trump.

When South made a jump rebid, North had an easy raise to four. South's bid of four no trump appears to have been part of some empty ritual, for it served no useful purpose. South's club holding rendered the use of Blackwood an idle gesture for North's response would not clear up matters at all. If North shows only one ace there will still be a slam if he has a singleton club or the king-queen. South's club holding bars him from contracting for slam himself.

Over four spades South should have probed with a bid of five diamonds. This would have made it clear that his worries centered around the club situation. With a favorable holding North bids six, with his actual holding he returns to five spades which closes the auction.

West decided to play a waiting game, though on the basis of the bidding most players would have chosen a club lead.

Declarer won the trump opening and refrained from drawing the remaining trump lest the defense be given an opportunity to signal. He then played ace and queen of hearts, discarding the three of diamonds. West, in with the king of hearts and influenced by South's discard reasoned that South had control of clubs and had been relying on North's diamond bid to take care of the suit. The diamond return gave declarer just enough discards to run off with his contract.

Vitamin D is the sunshine vitamin.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

The Sunshine Vitamin

Among the best of skin "foods" is one that you can get free — right from ol' King Sol himself. That is vitamin D.

Vitamin D, found in sunlight, is a great builder-upper. It normalizes blood and builds bone. You need more of it for good teeth, sound nerves, better sleep. If you have an insufficient amount of it you are apt to have poor bone structure, nervous tension, bad teeth, calcium deficiency, arthritis and nearsightedness. The best source of this vitamin is sunshine, so relax in it when you can.

Don't think a heavy tan means you're getting more vitamin D. In fact, just the opposite can be true. When you are heavily tanned, less of the ultraviolet ray light from the sun reaches the lower layer of the skin where it activates the provitamin. This is the reason for the greater incidence of rickets in dark-skinned children. So remember this next time when you're working so hard to develop a heavy coat of tan. It may bring compliments from some friends, but it decreases the scientific profit from exposure to sunshine.

When you expose your skin to sunlight, activation of a provitamin in the skin occurs. After activation in the skin, vitamin D is transported by the blood all over the body.

Don't be in too big a hurry to wash away the benefits from a sunbath. In other words, give your skin time to absorb the vitamin D. When you come inside from a bout with the sun, don't rush to the bathroom to take a shower or bath. Relax and have a short nap, or read the newspaper first.

Vitamin D is strange among the vitamins in that more of it is ordinarily taken into the body through the skin than the mouth.

The woman who nurtures her face but neglects the all-over complexion of her body is like an ostrich with its head in the sand. Everybody sees the plumage except the owner. So take a sunbath exposing as much of the body as possible when you can.

Court Probates Wills Of Three

Wills of three persons who died in the final days of June were probated in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Miss Virginia Opie McKay, 74, a former local resident, who lived at 16 Bestgate Road, Annapolis, at the time of her death June 30. Her brother, Daniel A. McKay, 15 South Allegany Street, qualified as executor under a $1,000 bond. He was the sole beneficiary under the will dated August 27, 1947.

Also probated Friday was the will of Edgar W. Shuck, who was a 52-year-old resident of 47 Broadway, Frostburg, at the time of his death June 30. His widow, Dora A. Shuck, qualified as executrix under a $200 bond and was the sole beneficiary. It was dated June 28, 1955.

The third will probated was the last testament of Miss Rose Cecelia Dempsey, who lived at 202 Prince George Street at the time of her death June 26. Her sister, Mrs. Clara V. Sigler, who lives at the Prince George Street address, was the sole beneficiary and qualified as executrix under a $100 bond.

Declarer had to rely on sleight of hand today to divert his opponent's attention from the weak spot in his hand.

North had something of a problem on his first rebid. The hand was somewhat too robust for a mere single raise of partner's spade response, so he inhaled deeply and bid two diamonds hoping to get another chance. This anxious moment might have been avoided had he chosen to open with the more logical call of one no trump.

When South made a jump rebid, North had an easy raise to four. South's bid of four no trump appears to have been part of some empty ritual, for it served no useful purpose. South's club holding rendered the use of Blackwood an idle gesture for North's response would not clear up matters at all. If North shows only one ace there will still be a slam if he has a singleton club or the king-queen. South's club holding bars him from contracting for slam himself.

Over four spades South should have probed with a bid of five diamonds. This would have made it clear that his worries centered around the club situation. With a favorable holding North bids six, with his actual holding he returns to five spades which closes the auction.

West decided to play a waiting game, though on the basis of the bidding most players would have chosen a club lead.

Declarer won the trump opening and refrained from drawing the remaining trump lest the defense be given an opportunity to signal. He then played ace and queen of hearts, discarding the three of diamonds. West, in with the king of hearts and influenced by South's discard reasoned that South had control of clubs and had been relying on North's diamond bid to take care of the suit. The diamond return gave declarer just enough discards to run off with his contract.

Threat Of Steel Walkout Sends Market Downward

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock values were slashed more than $2.5 billion on selling touched off by nervousness in the steels.

With the steel labor negotiations apparently deadlocked on the eve of the strike deadline and with the industry rapidly banking furnaces, steel stock prices were cut sharply—2½ points in U.S. Steel, 2 in Republic, a point or more in most of the others.

Early strength in the autos was wiped out in the last minutes of trading, leaving Chrysler and Ford nearly 2 points lower, General Motors down almost a point and American Motors and Studebaker holding only fractions of their early good gains.

Aluminums, however, stood out as a bright spot through the selling. Reynolds Metals gained 3½, Alcoa and Kaiser nearly a point each.

Coppers were weak, with Cerro de Pasco and Miami off over 2, Anaconda down over a point. After the close, leading producers announced price cuts of 1½ cents a pound for the metal.

Oil losses ranged close to 2 points in Amerada, around a point in Atlantic Refining, Standard of California and Texaco. Du Pont fell 3, Allied nearly 3 in the chemicals. Goodyear lost 2, Polaroid and Haveg 4 each, Merck 2 points, Westinghouse Electric 2, Zenith 2¼, Motorola 1¾, Ampex 2¼.

Rails, which would suffer in any prolonged steel strike, showed declines ranging to around a point in Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania and 2 points in Norfolk & Western.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Corn was weak, but other grains were strong Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was unchanged to up ⅝; corn off ⅝ to 1¼; oats up ⅞ to 1; new oats up ⅝ to 1; rye up 1¼ to 2⅝ and soybeans up ⅝ to 4¼.

Trading quieted after an active period of buying early in the session. The buying stemmed from a government crop estimate Friday which predicted a record corn crop, but lower than expected harvests of other grains.

Wheat prices settled at a strong level. Commission houses and commercial interests were early buyers. There was moderate hedge selling, and a small mill demand.

Corn declined as selling resulted from the bearish crop estimate. Cash and commission houses bought September and December on the decline. Spot corn started firm. Export subsidies were granted on 692,000 bushels of corn and 319,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were strong, with general buying at the outset. Early offerings were small. Rye was up more than 2½ cents in some contracts.

Soybean futures leaped as much as 6⅝ cents a bushel before the buying wave settled down. Soybean oil was up 15 points. Early buying of November beans narrowed the September-November spread to ½ cent at one point. The range:

Threat Of Steel Walkout Sends Market Downward

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock values were slashed more than $2.5 billion on selling touched off by nervousness in the steels.

With the steel labor negotiations apparently deadlocked on the eve of the strike deadline and with the industry rapidly banking furnaces, steel stock prices were cut sharply—2½ points in U.S. Steel, 2 in Republic, a point or more in most of the others.

Early strength in the autos was wiped out in the last minutes of trading, leaving Chrysler and Ford nearly 2 points lower, General Motors down almost a point and American Motors and Studebaker holding only fractions of their early good gains.

Aluminums, however, stood out as a bright spot through the selling. Reynolds Metals gained 3½, Alcoa and Kaiser nearly a point each.

Coppers were weak, with Cerro de Pasco and Miami off over 2, Anaconda down over a point. After the close, leading producers announced price cuts of 1½ cents a pound for the metal.

Oil losses ranged close to 2 points in Amerada, around a point in Atlantic Refining, Standard of California and Texaco. Du Pont fell 3, Allied nearly 3 in the chemicals. Goodyear lost 2, Polaroid and Haveg 4 each, Merck 2 points, Westinghouse Electric 2, Zenith 2¼, Motorola 1¾, Ampex 2¼.

Rails, which would suffer in any prolonged steel strike, showed declines ranging to around a point in Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania and 2 points in Norfolk & Western.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Corn was weak, but other grains were strong Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was unchanged to up ⅝; corn off ⅝ to 1¼; oats up ⅞ to 1; new oats up ⅝ to 1; rye up 1¼ to 2⅝ and soybeans up ⅝ to 4¼.

Trading quieted after an active period of buying early in the session. The buying stemmed from a government crop estimate Friday which predicted a record corn crop, but lower than expected harvests of other grains.

Wheat prices settled at a strong level. Commission houses and commercial interests were early buyers. There was moderate hedge selling, and a small mill demand.

Corn declined as selling resulted from the bearish crop estimate. Cash and commission houses bought September and December on the decline. Spot corn started firm. Export subsidies were granted on 692,000 bushels of corn and 319,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were strong, with general buying at the outset. Early offerings were small. Rye was up more than 2½ cents in some contracts.

Soybean futures leaped as much as 6⅜ cents a bushel before the buying wave settled down. Soybean oil was up 15 points. Early buying of November beans narrowed the September-November spread to ½ cent at one point. The range:

An eight-year-old Garrett County girl was killed yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile on U. S. Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg.

Bonnie Lee Broadwater, who lived at Avilton, was pronounced dead on arrival at Miners Hospital in Frostburg. Dr. James Feaster Jr., deputy county medical examiner of Garrett County, said the victim died of a fractured skull.

She was a daughter of Roy and Diona (Crowe) Broadwater. Authorities said the driver of the automobile was Mavis Irene Warren, 32, of 5212 Valley Road, Washington 19, D. C.

Afterward she and several other children were standing in front of the school waiting for a ride home.

Tfc. Glen D. Folk of the State Police said the driver was operating her car east on Route 40 at an apparent moderate rate of speed.

As the car came abreast of the child, police said, the victim began crossing the highway and was struck by the right front fender of the auto. The child was thrown off to the right of the highway.

A native of Avilton, the little girl was born on February 15, 1951, and was a member of Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

Surviving, besides her parents, are two brothers, Monty Roy and Rickey Wayne Broadwater, both at home, and three sisters, Barbara Diane, Gladys Louise and Denise June Broadwater, also at home.

The body is at the Durst Funeral Home in Frostburg.

Many Rattlesnakes Seen In Nearby Garrett County

Rattlesnakes seem to be unusually numerous in Garrett County this summer, William H. Johnson, district forester, said yesterday.

During the past few weeks quite a number have been killed in that county. He said a crew of men employed by the Department of State Forests and Parks killed about 10 rattlesnakes while working on telephone lines and also maintaining fire roads in that county.

About four others were killed in the Swallow Falls forest land. Superintendent M. E. Martin killed one which measured 48 inches and was nearly 11 inches in circumference. It had 12 rattlers and a button.

Mr. Johnson's son, Offutt, killed a rattlesnake with a fire rake. He is an attendant at the Swallow Falls Recreation area.

Two others have been killed in the Savage River forest and another one on Dan's Mountain, Mr. Johnson recalled yesterday that back in the days of the CCC Camps up to 60 rattlesnakes would be killed in Garrett County each summer.

Out-Of-County Jury To Hear Payton Trial

Former Local Man Charged In Plot

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard Monday granted a defense motion asking that a venire from neighboring Franklin County be called to hear the trial of eight union members charged in a dynamiting plot against the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills.

The defense had asked that either the trial be moved to another county or a jury be picked from another county.

Judge Mallard said he did not think the trial should be moved, but ordered that a special venire of 100 prospective jurors be called from Franklin County at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

The defendants, all members of the Textile Workers Union of America, include Boyd Payton, a former Cumberland, Md., resident who is Carolinas representative of the TWUA.

Judge Mallard asked Payton to rise and state his feelings on the matter.

"I do not feel I could get a fair trial from people in Vance County under the present circumstances," Payton replied.

One by one the other seven defendants rose and made the same statement.

At the opening of the trial, Judge Mallard denied a defense motion that charges against the eight be dismissed. The eight then pleaded innocent to the charge that they plotted to blow up property of the struck mills sometime in June.

The eight are charged on three counts of plotting to dynamite the boiler room, the power substation and the office building at the mills' South Henderson plant. They will be tried simultaneously on all counts.

City Prepares Ordinance On Street Projects

Cost-Sharing Plan Coming, Mayor Says

A comprehensive ordinance covering street construction and repair is being prepared for the City of Cumberland.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and City Attorney William R. Carscaden are working on the ordinance, which he hopes will be ready for introduction Monday.

Mayor Keech said the ordinance will set forth the exact cost to taxpayers of all types of street work.

But property owners, he stressed, will not be asked to pay the whole bill.

Details of the plan under which the cost of street work will be shared by the city and property owners will be spelled out in the ordinance.

Ask Current Costs

During yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, Mr. Nuzum presented proposals for a city policy covering street resurfacing and construction and a list of improved streets which are in urgent need of attention.

The recommendations were noted and discussed at a meeting which followed the regular council session.

During that meeting, city officials asked Mr. Nuzum for current prices for all items of street construction and rehabilitation.

This data was being prepared yesterday and is expected to be presented to city officials today.

The prices will be for the construction of curb and gutters, for a five-inch stone base course and a three-inch blacktop course.

Similar prices will be given for work involved in the light surfacing of streets.

Mr. Nuzum said there will be three propositions to consider.

Three Plans Set

The first is for the miles of previously paved streets whose usefulness can be extended by leveling and a new wearing surface.

The second would be for residential type streets which could be improved in stages. Prices would be established for building curb and gutter, for grading, light surface treatment and several years later for a blacktop wearing course.

A third type of street is one which would become an adjunct or feeder street for the Cumberland Thruway project.

Such a street, he said, would have to be of a higher type of construction than a residential street, since it would be subject to heavy traffic from the Thruway.

Under the current policy, property owners pay 100 per cent of the costs of street construction except at intersections, which are a city obligation.

Mr. Nuzum said his program was being advanced in view of the city's increased use of asphalt and chip treatment on city streets in place of the annual oiling program.

Procedure Outlined

He stressed the need for a better understanding on the limitations of surface treatment, pointing out that such treatment is made in order to protect the underlying base of stone, shale, cinders or clay.

A clay base is least suitable for surface treatment, he continued, stating that for the best wearing qualities the street should be covered with from four to six inches of crushed stone before surface treatment is applied.

Mr. Nuzum's report also pointed out that when a street is not curbed and guttered, ditching is necessary for drainage purposes, despite the fact that such ditches create a traffic hazard and a continued maintenance problem.

He pointed out that city ordinances state that a street grade is necessary for each thoroughfare before it can be accepted into the city system. Nuzum said a street should be given permanent or semi-permanent treatment only after it is brought to grade and side drainage taken care of.

His recommendations stated that property owners wishing to have their street surface created should first apply to the Mayor

Three Music Teachers Fill Only Vacancies

Rizer Announces Appointments

The appointment of three music teachers in public schools of Allegany County completes the needs of that department, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent announced yesterday.

Miss Charlotte Louise Stump, of Roaring Springs, Pa., has been appointed music teacher at Mt. Savage High School filling the position formerly held by Bennett Arthur, who resigned in January this year. The job was filled on a temporary basis by Mrs. Florence Conrad, this city.

Miss Stump, who was graduated from the Roaring Springs High School in 1955, completed studies at Penn State University in 1959 where she majored in music education. She plans to reside in Corriganville.

Miss Dolores Victoria Rowley, of 710 Greenway Avenue, has been assigned to Cresaptown Junior High School and will replace Mrs. Ann Thompson Baum, who resigned at the close of the school year this past June.

A member of the 1955 graduating class of Fort Hill High School, Miss Rowley received her bachelor of music degree in 1959 from Indiana (Pa.) State University where she majored in music education.

Mrs. Sara Pierce of 98 Gainsborough, Boston, Mass., has been appointed music resource teacher at Johnson Heights, Columbia Street and Virginia Avenue schools, replacing Miss Grace Swanson, who has retired.

Mrs. Pierce has had eight years of teaching service having taught four years in Kansas and four years in Massachusetts.

She was graduated from Goddard (Kans.) High School in 1947 and received a bachelor of music degree in 1951 from Friends University, Wichita, Kans. In 1956 she received her master's degree from the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Pierce plans to live in Frostburg.

Mr. Rizer also pointed out that Miss Carol Reith, of 339 Bedford Street, who formerly taught music at Oldtown High School, will teach music part-time at Allegany High and part-time at Fort Hill High.

Mrs. Alice Fitzwater Wheeler, 25 Wempe Drive, who formerly taught music and physical education in the seventh grade at Pennsylvania Avenue, is returning from a leave of absence and will fill the position vacated by Miss Reith at Oldtown.

The Board of Education of Allegany County is accepting bids for insurance coverage on the fleet of school buses and passenger cars which will be used in the public school transportation program for the school year 1959-1960.

The deadline for bids is Thursday, August 6, at 2 p. m. in the Board office, 108 Washington Street. Detailed specifications may be obtained at the Board office.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all the bids.

Fire Chief Issues Warning About Plastic Bag Danger

Playing with matches has always posed a dangerous problem for parents of children, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, who said that plastic bags are now proving to be a menace to the lives of youngsters.

In recent weeks a number of deaths of children in various sections of the nation have been attributed to suffocation when a child pulled a plastic bag down over his head and was unable to breathe.

Although similar tragedies have not occurred in the Cumberland area, Chief Parker said, it is a wise move to eliminate the cause for such tragedies.

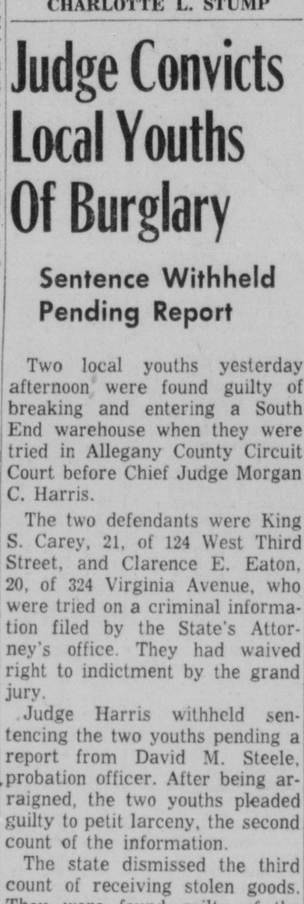

Such bags are usually supplied for protection of garments after cleaning and pressing. These plastic bags should be kept out of reach of children. A better idea is to destroy the bags after they have served their purpose, Chief Parker added.

He warns parents not to permit small children to play with plastic film wrappings and do not use them as covering for pillows and mattresses in baby carriages, play pens and cribs.

Chief Parker said yesterday the Baltimore City Council has under consideration a proposed ordinance which provides that it would be unlawful to sell, give, trade or otherwise convey a bag or piece of plastic large enough to fit over or around a human head unless there is plainly printed thereon "Dangerous for children's use."

"Plastic" means any material which tends to cling to the human skin and which is so nonporous as possibly to cause the suffocation of any person when fitted over or around the head.

Violation of the proposed Baltimore ordinance would be considered a misdemeanor and the guilty person or firm would be subject to a fine not to exceed $50 for each violation.

Judge Convicts Local Youths Of Burglary

Sentence Withheld Pending Report

Two local youths yesterday afternoon were found guilty of breaking and entering a South End warehouse when they were tried in Allegany County Circuit Court before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The two defendants were King S. Carey, 21, of 124 West Third Street, and Clarence E. Eaton, 20, of 324 Virginia Avenue, who were tried on a criminal information filed by the State's Attorney's office. They had waived right to indictment by the grand jury.

Judge Harris withheld sentencing the two youths pending a report from David M. Steele, probation officer. After being arraigned, the two youths pleaded guilty to petit larceny, the second count of the information.

The state dismissed the third count of receiving stolen goods. They were found guilty of the first count which was burglary.

City police arrested them July 5 in connection with the theft of five cases of soup and three cases of pork and beans valued at $35.20 from the warehouse of H. E. Douglass on Springdale Street.

The case first developed when local police received word the youths were attempting to sell the soup in South Cumberland. After their arrest, they reportedly admitted selling four cases for $8 and four cases for $10.

The food was recovered by police. City Police Detective Lieutenant James E. Van said the youths entered the warehouse cellar by forcing a side window. Sgt. E. Gordon Hite and Officer Frank Bohn made the arrests.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya presented the case last week during a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt who set bond at $500 for their appearance in the fall term of court.

Field Trip Set Today

A group of 18 students at Frostburg State Teachers College this evening will take a field trip headed by Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office here.

Dr. Harold J. Cordts, coach and instructor of physical education at the college, is conducting a course in outdoor education this summer and will accompany the group.

Mr. Gordon said he plans to take the class to the Mt. Savage area, where they will visit the Wilbert Paul farm. If they have time before dark they will also try to visit Earl H. Lepley's farm.

They will get a glimpse of contour strip farming, diversion terrace work, grassland farming, and farm ponds. Mr. Gordon will explain soil types and proper land use during the field trip.

Three films on conservation have been furnished to the class by Mr. Gordon's office. Today's trip will begin about 5 o'clock and will continue until about 8:15.

State Will Aid In Kitzmiller Flood Project

Board Approves Sale Of Yacht

The State Board of Public Works yesterday in Annapolis approved a state grant of $30,000 toward $340,000 flood control project at Kitzmiller in Garrett County.

The state funds will be paid out over two years on a matching basis with the town, Garrett County and the federal government.

The government has tentatively agreed to pay up to $280,000 of the cost of the Potomac River flood project if local sources put up $60,000 for easements and rights of way.

The County Commissioners of Garrett County have agreed to include $15,000 in its 1960 budget for matching funds and the Town of Kitzmiller is committed to issue bonds in a like amount for its contribution.

Gov. Tawes termed the $30,000 state grant "a good investment."

The project is one of three planned on the upper Potomac River by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Will Sell Yacht

The Board also approved plans to sell the state yacht Potomac, flagship of the Tidewater Fisheries enforcement fleet and former presidential yacht of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The three-man administrative board agreed to a Tidewater Fisheries Commission proposal that the yacht be disposed of as too expensive to maintain and that the state acquire a smaller yacht.

There was little discussion of the matter, to which board members had assented in advance. Gov. Tawes said he has told Dr. H. C. Byrd, chairman of the TFC, to contact possible buyers and then the board will ask for sealed bids.

The 160-foot yacht, built in 1936 as a Coast Guard cutter, was given to the state in 1946 as a replacement for a former Maryland yacht battered in wartime duty in the Coast Guard. The Potomac had been returned to regular Coast Guard duty after use by President Roosevelt.

Can Halve Costs

The TFC said it cost $150,000 to operate the yacht the last two years, and Gov. Tawes speculated that a smaller but still sizable state yacht could be operated for "half the cost." The major difference would be in crew salaries. The Potomac carries a crew of 18. It has been estimated that a somewhat smaller yacht could be operated by 3 to 4 men.

Funds saved from operation could be plowed into oyster propagation and other fisheries programs, the TFC said.

Many Rattlesnakes Seen In Nearby Garrett County

Rattlesnakes seem to be unusually numerous in Garrett County this summer, William H. Johnson, district forester, said yesterday.

During the past few weeks quite a number have been killed in that county. He said a crew of men employed by the Department of State Forests and Parks killed about 10 rattlesnakes while working on telephone lines and also maintaining fire roads in that county.

About four others were killed in the Swallow Falls forest land. Superintendent M. E. Martin killed one which measured 48 inches and was nearly 11 inches in circumference. It had 12 rattlers and a button.

Mr. Johnson's son, Offutt, killed a rattlesnake with a fire rake. He is an attendant at the Swallow Falls Recreation area.

Two others have been killed in the Savage River forest and another one on Dan's Mountain, Mr. Johnson recalled yesterday that back in the days of the CCC Camps up to 60 rattlesnakes would be killed in Garrett County each summer.

He said that if a person makes considerable noise while walking through the woods it will have a tendency to scare off the snakes.

Out-Of-County Jury To Hear Payton Trial

Former Local Man Charged In Plot

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard Monday granted a defense motion asking that a venire from neighboring Franklin County be called to hear the trial of eight union members charged in a dynamiting plot against the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills.

The defense had asked that either the trial be moved to another county or a jury be picked from another county.

Judge Mallard said he did not think the trial should be moved, but ordered that a special venire of 100 prospective jurors be called from Franklin County at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

The defendants, all members of the Textile Workers Union of America, include Boyd Payton, a former Cumberland, Md., resident who is Carolinas representative of the TWUA.

Judge Mallard asked Payton to rise and state his feelings on the matter.

"I do not feel I could get a fair trial from people in Vance County under the present circumstances," Payton replied.

One by one the other seven defendants rose and made the same statement.

At the opening of the trial, Judge Mallard denied a defense motion that charges against the eight be dismissed. The eight then pleaded innocent to the charge that they plotted to blow up property of the struck mills sometime in June.

The eight are charged on three counts of plotting to dynamite the boiler room, the power substation and the office building at the mills' South Henderson plant. They will be tried simultaneously on all counts.

Both youths were sworn in at Baltimore and then transferred to Great Lakes Naval Training Center for nine weeks of recruit training.

City Prepares Ordinance On Street Projects

Cost-Sharing Plan Coming, Mayor Says

A comprehensive ordinance covering street construction and repair is being prepared for the City of Cumberland.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and City Attorney William R. Carscaden are working on the ordinance, which he hopes will be ready for introduction Monday.

Mayor Keech said the ordinance will set forth the exact cost to taxpayers of all types of street work.

But property owners, he stressed, will not be asked to pay the whole bill.

Details of the plan under which the cost of street work will be shared by the city and property owners will be spelled out in the ordinance.

Ask Current Costs

During yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, Mr. Nuzum presented proposals for a city policy covering street resurfacing and construction and a list of improved streets which are in urgent need of attention.

The recommendations were noted and discussed at a meeting which followed the regular council session.

During that meeting, city officials asked Mr. Nuzum for current prices for all items of street construction and rehabilitation.

This data was being prepared yesterday and is expected to be presented to city officials today.

The prices will be for the construction of curb and gutters, for a five-inch stone base course and a three-inch blacktop course.

Similar prices will be given for work involved in the light surfacing of streets.

Mr. Nuzum said there will be three propositions to consider.

Three Plans Set

The first is for the miles of previously paved streets whose usefulness can be extended by leveling and a new wearing surface.

The second would be for residential type streets which could be improved in stages. Prices would be established for building curb and gutter, for grading, light surface treatment and several years later for a blacktop wearing course.

A third type of street is one which would become an adjunct or feeder street for the Cumberland Thruway project.

Such a street, he said, would have to be of a higher type of construction than a residential street, since it would be subject to heavy traffic from the Thruway.

Under the current policy, property owners pay 100 per cent of the costs of street construction except at intersections, which are a city obligation.

Mr. Nuzum said his program was being advanced in view of the city's increased use of asphalt and chip treatment on city streets in place of the annual oiling program.

Procedure Outlined

He stressed the need for a better understanding on the limitations of surface treatment, pointing out that such treatment is made in order to protect the underlying base of stone, shale, cinders or clay.

A clay base is least suitable for surface treatment, he continued, stating that for the best wearing qualities the street should be covered with from four to six inches of crushed stone before surface treatment is applied.

Mr. Nuzum's report also pointed out that when a street is not curbed and guttered, ditching is necessary for drainage purposes, despite the fact that such ditches create a traffic hazard and a continued maintenance problem.

He pointed out that city ordinances state that a street grade is necessary for each thoroughfare before it can be accepted into the city system. Nuzum said a street should be given permanent or semi-permanent treatment only after it is brought to grade and side drainage taken care of.

His recommendations stated that property owners wishing to have their street surface treated should first apply to the Mayor

Fire Chief Issues Warning About Plastic Bag Danger

Playing with matches has always posed a dangerous problem for parents of children, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, who said that plastic bags are now proving to be a menace to the lives of youngsters.

In recent weeks a number of deaths of children in various sections of the nation have been attributed to suffocation when a child pulled a plastic bag down over his head and was unable to breathe.

Although similar tragedies have not occurred in the Cumberland area, Chief Parker said, it is a wise move to eliminate the cause for such tragedies.

Such bags are usually supplied for protection of garments after cleaning and pressing. These plastic bags should be kept out of reach of children. A better idea is to destroy the bags after they have served their purpose, Chief Parker added.

He warns parents not to permit small children to play with plastic film wrappings and do not use them as covering for pillows and mattresses in baby carriages, play pens and cribs.

Chief Parker said yesterday the Baltimore City Council has under consideration a proposed ordinance which provides that it would be unlawful to sell, give, trade or otherwise convey a bag or piece of plastic large enough to fit over or around a human head unless there is plainly printed thereon "Dangerous for children's use."

"Plastic" means any material which tends to cling to the human skin and which is so nonporous as possibly to cause the suffocation of any person when fitted over or around the head.

Violation of the proposed Baltimore ordinance would be considered a misdemeanor and the guilty person or firm would be subject to a fine not to exceed $50 for each violation.

Three Music Teachers Fill Only Vacancies

Rizer Announces Appointments

The appointment of three music teachers in public schools of Allegany County completes the needs of that department, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent announced yesterday.

Miss Charlotte Louise Stump, of Roaring Springs, Pa., has been appointed music teacher at Mt. Savage High School filling the position formerly held by Bennett Arthur, who resigned in January this year. The job was filled on a temporary basis by Mrs. Florence Conrad, this city.

Miss Stump, who was graduated from the Roaring Springs High School in 1955, completed studies at Penn State University in 1959 where she majored in music education. She plans to reside in Corriganville.

Miss Dolores Victoria Rowley, of 710 Greenway Avenue, has been assigned to Cresaptown Junior High School and will replace Mrs. Ann Thompson Baum, who resigned at the close of the school year this past June.

A member of the 1955 graduating class of Fort Hill High School, Miss Rowley received her bachelor of music degree in 1959 from Indiana (Pa.) State University where she majored in music education.

Mrs. Sara Pierce of 98 Gainsborough, Boston, Mass., has been appointed music resource teacher at Johnson Heights, Columbia Street and Virginia Avenue schools, replacing Miss Grace Swanson, who has retired.

Mrs. Pierce has had eight years of teaching service having taught four years in Kansas and four years in Massachusetts.

She was graduated from Goddard (Kans.) High School in 1947 and received a bachelor of music degree in 1951 from Friends University, Wichita, Kans. In 1956 she received her master's degree from the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Pierce plans to live in Frostburg.

Mr. Rizer also pointed out that Miss Carol Reith, of 339 Bedford Street, who formerly taught music at Oldtown High School, will teach music part-time at Allegany High and part-time at Fort Hill High.

Mrs. Alice Fitzwater Wheeler, 25 Wempe Drive, who formerly taught music and physical education in the seventh grade at Pennsylvania Avenue, is returning from a leave of absence and will fill the position vacated by Miss Reith at Oldtown.

Judge Convicts Local Youths Of Burglary

Sentence Withheld Pending Report

Two local youths yesterday afternoon were found guilty of breaking and entering a South End warehouse when they were tried in Allegany County Circuit Court before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The two defendants were King S. Carey, 21, of 124 West Third Street, and Clarence E. Eaton, 20, of 324 Virginia Avenue, who were tried on a criminal information filed by the State's Attorney's office. They had waived right to indictment by the grand jury.

Judge Harris withheld sentencing the two youths pending a report from David M. Steele, probation officer. After being arraigned, the two youths pleaded guilty to petit larceny, the second count of the information.

The state dismissed the third count of receiving stolen goods. They were found guilty of the first count which was burglary.

City police arrested them July 5 in connection with the theft of five cases of soup and three cases of pork and beans valued at $35.20 from the warehouse of H. E. Douglass on Springdale Street.

The case first developed when local police received word the youths were attempting to sell the soup in South Cumberland. After their arrest, they reportedly admitted selling four cases for $8 and four cases for $10.

The food was recovered by police. City Police Detective Lieutenant James E. Van said the youths entered the warehouse cellar by forcing a side window. Sgt. E. Gordon Hite and Officer Frank Bohn made the arrests.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya presented the case last week during a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt who set bond at $500 for their appearance in the fall term of court.

Field Trip Set Today

A group of 18 students at Frostburg State Teachers College this evening will take a field trip headed by Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office here.

Dr. Harold J. Cordts, coach and instructor of physical education at the college, is conducting a course in outdoor education this summer and will accompany the group.

Mr. Gordon said he plans to take the class to the Mt. Savage area, where they will visit the Wilbert Paul farm. If they have time before dark they will also try to visit Earl H. Lepley's farm.

They will get a glimpse of contour strip farming, diversion terrace work, grassland farming, and farm ponds. Mr. Gordon will explain soil types and proper land use during the field trip.

Three films on conservation have been furnished to the class by Mr. Gordon's office. Today's trip will begin about 5 o'clock and will continue until about 8:15.

State Will Aid In Kitzmiller Flood Project

Board Approves Sale Of Yacht

The State Board of Public Works yesterday in Annapolis approved a state grant of $30,000 toward $340,000 flood control project at Kitzmiller in Garrett County.

The state funds will be paid out over two years on a matching basis with the town, Garrett County and the federal government.

The government has tentatively agreed to pay up to $280,000 of the cost of the Potomac River flood project if local sources put up $60,000 for easements and rights of way.

The County Commissioners of Garrett County have agreed to include $15,000 in its 1960 budget for matching funds and the Town of Kitzmiller is committed to issue bonds in a like amount for its contribution.

Gov. Tawes termed the $30,000 state grant "a good investment."

The project is one of three planned on the upper Potomac River by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Board also approved plans to sell the state yacht Potomac, flagship of the Tidewater Fisheries enforcement fleet and former presidential yacht of Franklin D. Roosevelt.
